

My Dearest Tim ~
 As you noticed, I am the first one to sign this page, I probably the last one, if I take up too much space. Well, I've only known you for about 4 months, I'll never forget the really seems like longer. Does it seem like that to you? Anyhow, I'll have to do my funny expressions you had on your face when Miss Seelgen, I got into it. I'll have to say for now, so I might as won't have to worry again for you. This summer we I think I ran outta mings to say for now, so I might as will get typical: Have a great summer, good luck next year!

Love always,
 (Lelani Crosshaw-Evans)

DREAM OF CASTLES

If castles epitomized the pinnacle of success in ancient kingdoms, dreams of castles by Lancers were also aimed at the top. The gamut of dreams ran from the realistic to the fanciful; some dreamt of merely surviving the school year, while others yearned to make it a memorable time by participating in every school event from homecoming to the prom. No matter what the level of involvement, every Lancer had a dream. Sophomores pictured themselves as seniors, when they would no longer be the youngest ones on campus. Juniors dreamt of the fun times that lay ahead and took part in extra-curricular activities. Seniors concentrated on that special June day when the culminating event of their school years would occur. Dreams of castles were often dreamt; at LHS they were also often realized.

1. King Arthur's carousel provided many dreams of the past for Lancers as they whirled by on their fanciful animals. 2. Lakewood's mighty mascot, the famous Lancer, prepared to mount his mystical steed. 3. Disneyland and Sleeping Beauty's Castle were the perfect places for John Ridenour and Soo Kwon to begin their voyage through the Magic Kingdom. 4. Excalibur, the legendary sword of ancient times around which so many tales have evolved, was given a stupendous tug by Paula Tokar in her effort to revive a dream from the past. 5. Picturesque castles along any route taken by Lancers were a sight to behold. 6. Varsity Yell was capable of much more than merely dreaming of castles; they could build a beautiful one as well. 7. The great Seal Beach sandcastle spectacular allowed everyone to tour replicas of the world's greatest architectural wonders, from Windsor Castle and the Doge's Palace, to the Sydney Opera House. 8. A trip to King Pull's Kingdom was full of surprises for Amy Harter, Nicki Naylor, Jennifer Foreman, Cathy Heiss and Soo Kwon. 9. Jodi Middleton emphatically expressed the anticipation felt by Paolo Lopez, Jeremy Berryman and Paul Malleri as they entered the small world. 10. A journey into a "small world" impressed upon its participants the variety and richness of the world's cultures in a colorful and musical tour.

ACCEPT THE CHALLENGE

When it came to strength, endurance, perseverance and capability, Lancers were always in the spotlight. From baseball to weightlifting, from anatomy and physiology to computer mathematics, from orchestra and drama to participating on the LANCE or Citadel staff, Lakewood High School students maintained their eagerness to strive to be the best at whatever endeavor they encountered. Although not every workout, practice or rough draft proved to be exhilarating, long hours of honing skills and practicing each craft proved to be the necessary factor in making each performance count. One of the primary lessons taught at the school was to keep the desire to succeed going strong, even after graduation. Making the most of every situation was essential.

1. By exhorting each of his students to do his best, Mr. Arbogast hoped to coax Bill Miller into an all-time record bench press. 2. Sailing through the air with the greatest of ease, outstanding basketball star Angie Clark displayed perfect form as she did her lay-up. 3. When the apparatus was stored each day after sixth period workouts, Jenny Gilliland found some of the strangest places to practice her gymnastics skills. 4. High-jumping as both an athletic endeavor and an art form was epitomized by super-star Andre Lacoste. 5. Craig Carter, winner of the 1987 Achievement Award from The National Council of Teachers of English, freely gave of his time to tutor Lourdes Encinas, Suzy Artinian and Huberto Hernandez. 6. Microscopic organisms and their behavior patterns were no problem for Mike Newton and Jennifer Trierweiler with the help of the big-wig of the biology department, Mr. Riley. 7. Coach Joe Burza and his faithful companion, Dino, wondered why the baseball team would ever send in a line-up like this one. 8. Team captain Ming Leo was the chauffeur of choice for Coach "Logo" Dunphy and the varsity golf team. 9. Dan Christen beamed as he and his fellow students finally cornered the elusive Mrs. Cobb. 10. Beach volleyball held many thrills for Carlos Iriarte. 11. Christy Hazelwood rounded the corner in a practice round.

THE WARMTH OF A SMILE

One of the nicest aspects of life at Lakewood High School was sharing good times with special friends. The list of activities to enjoy together was almost endless as Lancer friendships ranged far and wide. From a lunch bunch that met daily to swap stories, to watching a romantic sunset at the beach with that certain someone, great times were found in abundance. Locales varied from amusement parks to movies, or even just relaxing in front of the fireplace; however, the attitude that was so special, that of a warm smile or friendly spirit, remained constant.

Everyone needed some encouragement at one time or another. No matter where they were found, one fact of life was that the times Lancers shared together would be cherished long past graduation day.

1. At the courtyard of his parents' home, Frank Torres entertained Gina Costello with stories about his childhood. 2. Seniors Aaron Cornell and Cindy Fernandez discovered that the Rusty Pelican restaurant was the perfect rendezvous for Sunday brunch. 3. An unexpected explosion in chemistry class provided a moment of humor for Ms. Gilpin and her students, Matt Malloy and Diana Worsley. 4. As they anxiously awaited the summer sun and some decent beach weather, Rico Meza and Stacy Cala surveyed the situation at Mother's Beach from a romantic roost. 5. A halloween treat from the goblins at the Rocky Mountain Chocolate Factory was an irresistible temptation for Pauline Corelli. 6. Sophomores Vito Messineo and Renee Foulkes found that Saturday night transportation for that big date was oftentimes difficult to obtain. 7. A relaxing rock was a source of a smile from Likita Jackson and Setwan Johnson. 8. A peaceful evening in front of the fireplace set the mood for Kenny Harper and Bridget Armstrong. 9. After the first period blahs had been left behind, by snack period every Lancer could manage a warm smile and friendly greeting for fellow students. 10. Smiles indicate the prevailing feelings of the many Lancers who shared both lunch and good times on Lakewood's newly constructed Center Stage.

GIVE IT THE WORKS

From the beginning of the day until the very end, one of the most pleasant things to look forward to was food. No matter where it was consumed, life's fuel took several forms, some conventional and some bizarre. Many Lancers remained on campus to either eat in the cafeteria or to brown-bag it with friends. For others, obtaining a lunch pass with one of those silly red dots was the ticket to freedom for a whole thirty-seven minutes between fourth and sixth periods. Students quickly jammed into friends' cars and began the race to the fast-food parlor of choice on any particular day. After stuffing faces with mounds of cholesterol, sugar and grease, they parked six blocks away from school and dashed to sixth period, usually with a Coke in hand.

1. A sunny day at the cookie Muncher's Paradise was the perfect getaway for Richie Kidd as he searched for the best chocolate chip cookie in town. 2. The generous selections at the Sizzler taco and tostada bar agreed with Lori Ball's appetite. 3. Characters' cuisine, as well as the outstanding decor, were the ingredients necessary for DeAnna Pfeiffer and Cindy Mertz to spend a night out on the town. 4. Ordering broadway, the Ken Bland Flake completed her plans for a gourmet meal. 5. Parker's Lighthouse, a Shoreline Village favorite, was the right place for Sheri Mize. 6. Ruth Sanchez examined the salad selection to make certain that she got the freshest watermelon. 7. As she shopped, Misty Andrewson eyed the tempting pastries. 8. Jason Cox and Melanie Sedlak awaited service at one of their favorite haunts, the Mermaid Tavern Coffee House and Bookstore. 9. Entranced by the selection, Joe Narvaez ordered his favorite grind. 10. Heidi's Frozen Yozurt offered the sweetest flavors and best sprinkles around, according to Kristi Dunlavy. 11. Dana Wyborny and Denise Scamp were inseparable as they pigged-out on Lamposi Pizza's speciality, pepperoni and eel. 12. Every flavor was a special treat for Nicole Dampsey, Lisa Morissette and Vicki Davis as they took time out from soccer practice to visit Swenson's.

WHAT A YEAR!

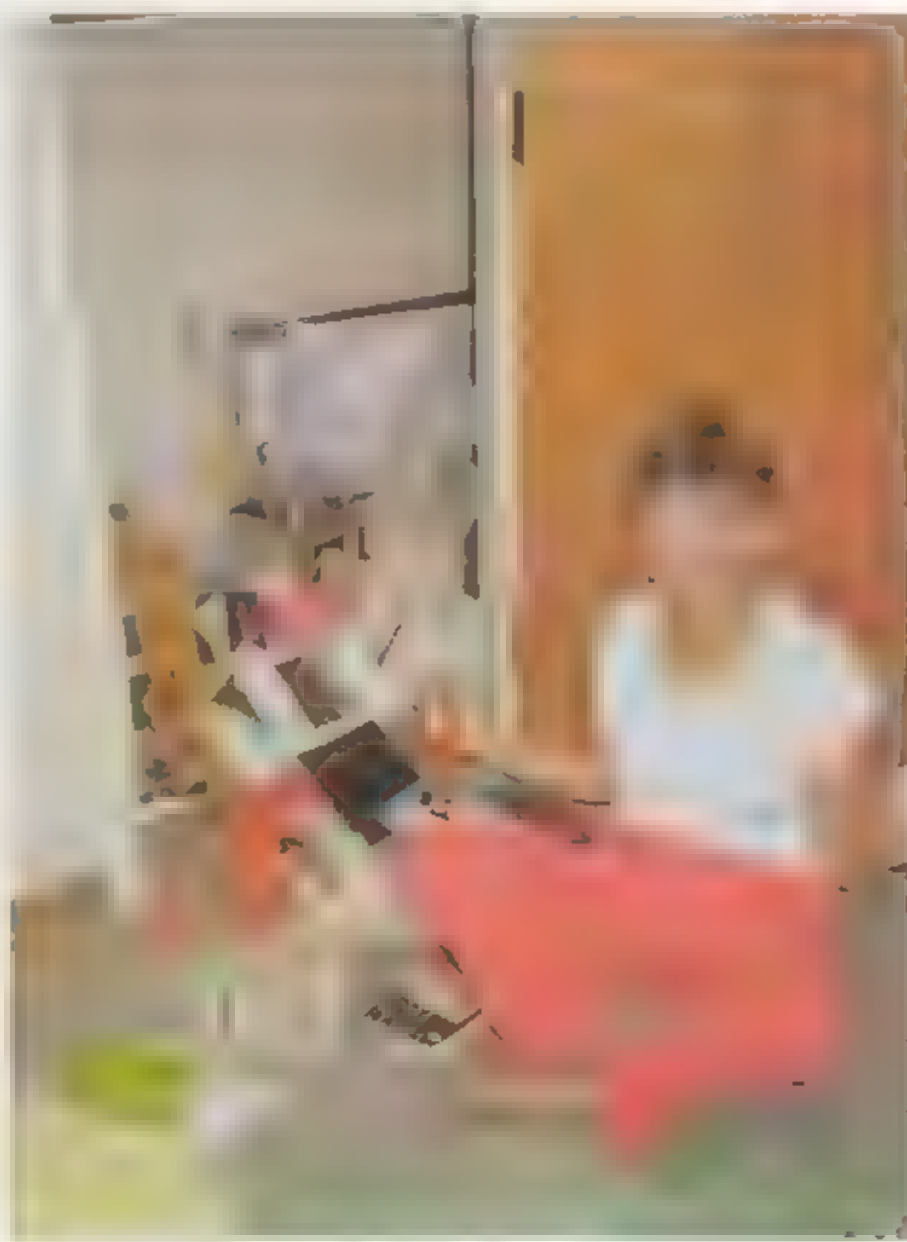

The school year began with more than a bang as events quickly happened that foretold of a special year. First, the electricity for the entire school went out on a fateful Friday; students performed admirably by going to classes on time, even without bells. Two weeks later, on Thursday, October the first, a 6.1 earthquake that was centered on the Whittier Narrows fault shook the school at 7.42 a.m. Evacuation was accomplished very smoothly; more importantly, not one injury was registered among the three thousand people. Throughout the year, from the celebration of the centennial of Long Beach, special assemblies on drug abuse, and recognition of the two hundredth birthday of the Constitution, special events made for extraordinary times.

1. A good bye kiss from his mother prepared Matt Revis to meet any contingency, even an earthquake! 2. Headlines in the local press screamed the news that the Whittier Narrows fault was the epicenter of the quake for Bunka-Lach, the epicenter was Lakewood High School. 3. After years of practice, surprise drop drills enabled LHS students to react correctly when the quake finally happened. 4. What a bummer for Judy Hammer. 5. Most of the Lancers who were on the football field behaved admirably; a two-hour delay in the start of school was necessitated while buildings were inspected. 6. Aaron Knight proudly admitted that he was among the largest entering sophomore classes in history. 7. Every lunch bunch had its standouts; this group included Connie Clark, Shannon Watts and Tricia Guayin. 8. Transportation problems plagued sophomores Shari Gilbert, Carolyn Bishop, Marie Nielsen and Kim Elliott throughout the year. 9. Sandy Rangel and Denise Mahaffey spent hours going over the information on the college bulletin board in an effort to make a sensible choice. 10. Long Beach Mayor Ernie Kell proudly displayed the centennial logo for the city's one-hundredth anniversary to Student Body President Nicole Naylor and Student Body Vice President Nancy English during their tour of the fourteenth floor of City Hall.

DISCOVER NEW WORLDS

One of the most exciting parts of being young was that many experiences were new. Every time a person encountered one of these events he could count on surprise, wonder and a sense of exhilaration. The new worlds discovered by Lancers varied from learning exciting facts in science classes, using watercolors and oils for the first time in art, and hands-on experiences and demonstrations in the industrial arts department. Whether working alone or in conjunction with others, there was always an aura of hard work and perseverance which as much as guaranteed that each discovery would be appreciated and retained. One of the greatest realizations that people found was that no matter what the task, it could be accomplished with skill and grace

1 Perspective and proportion were essential ingredients as Alyssa O'Neill critiqued the art at the Lakewood Mall. 2 Kicking back and being surprised at the same time, Sean McIntyre was ready to do his best in Newport's water polo tournament. 3 Bakheng Pheng found the perfect time to screw in a clamp as Mr. Stahl was momentarily distracted by one of his art students. 4 Adding the expert photography hints that he was famous for, Mr. Mollencamp wanted it just right as Gisela Fonseca's portrait was snapped by Adam Medina. 5 The newly formed Search and Rescue Squad was congratulated by Mr. Hopkins for performing so admirably during the earthquake. 6 Dr. Bennie Reams learned what it meant to be in "high" school as she received a welcoming gift from Robert Kuhn. 7 Exchange student Vicky Salden donned a traditional costume and danced the day away on her visit to Spain. 8 Tom Hicks was totally engrossed as Mr. Cramond pointed out pertinent information to Stacey Oates. 9 Laurie McCormick received special help on her job search from Mrs. Dowds. 10 Brian Lopez was absolutely flabbergasted by the fresh water creatures he found in the aquarium. 11 Noreen Thompson showed excellent skiing form as she took every opportunity to practice her favorite sport, even though the weather was not always as accommodating as it could have been.

IT'S A BLAST

Meeting the grueling demands of daily life could be overwhelming to both the students and the faculty without a little time out for some fun. Although most of the energies were directed toward writing term papers, studying for exams, doing homework assignment or, for some, taking college entrance exams, Lancers still had the time to find the good times to spend with friends doing the things that they most enjoyed. Innovative and inventive students performed a variety of pranks and stunts aimed at making their friends crack up. Teachers got into the act too; going all out to combine laughter with learning seemed to be the most effective method of education. In any event, it was a blast to be part of such a wild and crazy bunch. Good times were turned into great times by fun-loving Lancers.

1 While some football players had visions of sugarpops, Matt Nuez knew that success on the athletic field depended upon one hundred percent concentration. 2 Preparation for a day at school started the previous night for many dedicated teachers; Mrs. Cobb was surprised as she gamely placed the rollers in her hair. 3 What a cruel ending for such a talented swimming coach as Mr. Whittington was suddenly made to walk the plank by members of his team. 4 When it came to sticking around water, both David Razo and Garfield really stuck to it. 5 Igor's Alley was the locale of many a late night rendezvous for Lancers, including the intrepid Jeremy Berryman and Brian Pidrno. 6 The Lancer cabinet's adoration of its spirited leader, Activities Specialist Peter Cole, was far in a large measure his foresight, wisdom and clairvoyance. 7 After a long trek, Benny Thompson's trip to the "little house on the prairie" was all for naught. 8 Sporting challenges were forever on the horizon as center for Alfonso Gomez used Russ Shanberg for teeing off in a mixed-up game of golf. 9 One of the many talents possessed by Rogelio Casillas was that of consistently amazing his friends with feats of daring, strength and endurance. 10 A very spirited Mike Yi accepted a change of style for his senior year as he performed on Center Stage.

EVERYBODY'S DOIN' IT

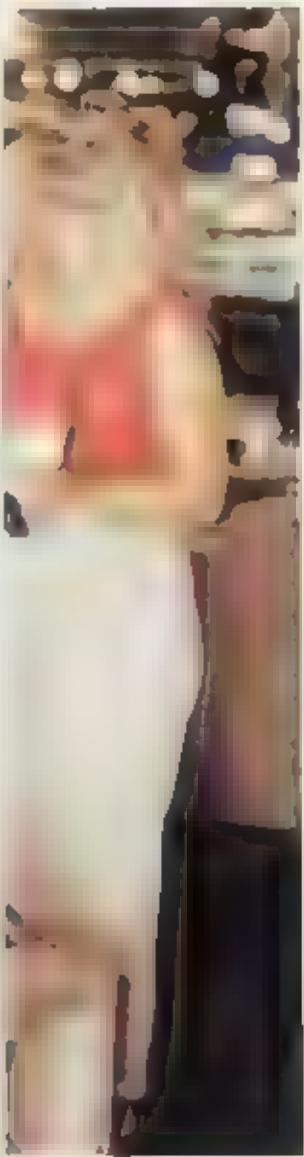

One of the obvious facts about those who dressed for homecoming festivities was that styles had certainly gone through revolutionary changes since the 1950s. What was popular then became outrageous. A similar fate would probably befall the fashions of 1988. Would future Lancers really shave letters and words in their hair? Could human advertisements for brands of clothing last very long? And as for scooters, just look what had happened to yesteryear's mopeds! Traditional styles seemed to make somewhat of a comeback this year as students realized that either they or their parents' hard earned money would be better spent on something of lasting style and value. Whether it was wild and wooly or sensible and sane, fashions were bound to change

1. Enjoying a refreshing glass of New York Seltzer was the ideal after-school relaxation for Tia Gomez. 2. Active Lancers such as Michelle Payne, Brett Cregar and John Haberland were often found at D & D Sporting Goods inspecting the latest athletic fashions. 3. The electronic craze that swept the nation included Rusty Wall who searched for the right video cassette for his entertainment. 4. Known throughout the campus for his stylish wardrobe, Chris Tinsley took a moment to study for Spring finals. 5. Basketball players were famous for having haircuts with a message as displayed by Jonathan 'Silk' Chaney. 6. One of the crazy crazes of 1988 was the love affair such students as Maria Barrios, Lisa Johnson, Pauline Corelli and Ernest Paul had for emblazoned visors. 7. The shoe selection at Nordstrom's made the choice all the more difficult for Jennifer Cunningham. 8. Cassandra Brandt, Mishel Narvaez, Christy Fitzpatrick and Negin Sattari modeled their hair wraps. 9. These two beauties could not resist the dapper Brian Lottes. 10. Health fads ran from the silly to the fanatical; however good health required regular exercise, a regimen of which Janne Cassel and Michele Racz approved as they merrily pedaled their bicycles at the Weingart YMCA. 11. Sweaters were an expensive part of Joe Narvaez's wardrobe.

THE BEST CONNECTIONS

Student-teacher relationships played an extremely important role at LHS. Whether it was the extra time a teacher freely gave to help solve a geometry problem, the hint from a chemistry partner in finding an unknown, the pat on the back from a coach after a mistake in practice, the smile from a counselor during the senior check, the wink from a staff assistant during checks for lunch passes or an encouraging word of congratulations from a grade-level administrator, each and every student needed and received continued support from members of the Lakewood staff. The ability to generate a grin here and there was an integral part of being known as a Lancer; the technique of making learning a fun experience was essential to the educational process

1. Librarian Linda Gill found that extra help in retrieving a stuck book was a necessity of life as she was rescued by her friends Carla McNeil, Don Mathewson and William Timlin. 2. Anatomy and physiology students were overwhelmed by the similarities between Mr. Saunders' behavior at LHS and that of model student Margaret Stewart. 3. Volunteering was a common behavior at LHS, and Diane Fellner's unselfish relinquishing of a pint of her blood during the Red Cross drive was greatly appreciated. 4. A sure-fire way of being able to face first period was to follow Mic Runolfsson's example of starting with a quick can of Jolt cola. 5. How could such a spirited group as AP British literature have had the nerve to steal Mrs. Black's ride home? 6. Chris Jordan was almost as proud of his progress on the wordprocessor as Mr. Carr was. 7. One of the hottest performing groups at Lakewood was the famous Jazz Band, under the expert direction of Jan Olson. 8. Were these the Four Stooges out-of-control or were Jon Nowak, John Green, Bob Evans and Clarence Shaver four of the most helpful people on campus? 9. Thinking that a toupee would disguise his identity, a sneaky Robbie Wigod was cornered by his history class. 10. Elijah Anderson was perplexed by Coach Sweaney's expertise at the "granny" shot. 11. Taking a breather, Mike Courtney prepared to do battle once again.

TOYS ARE US

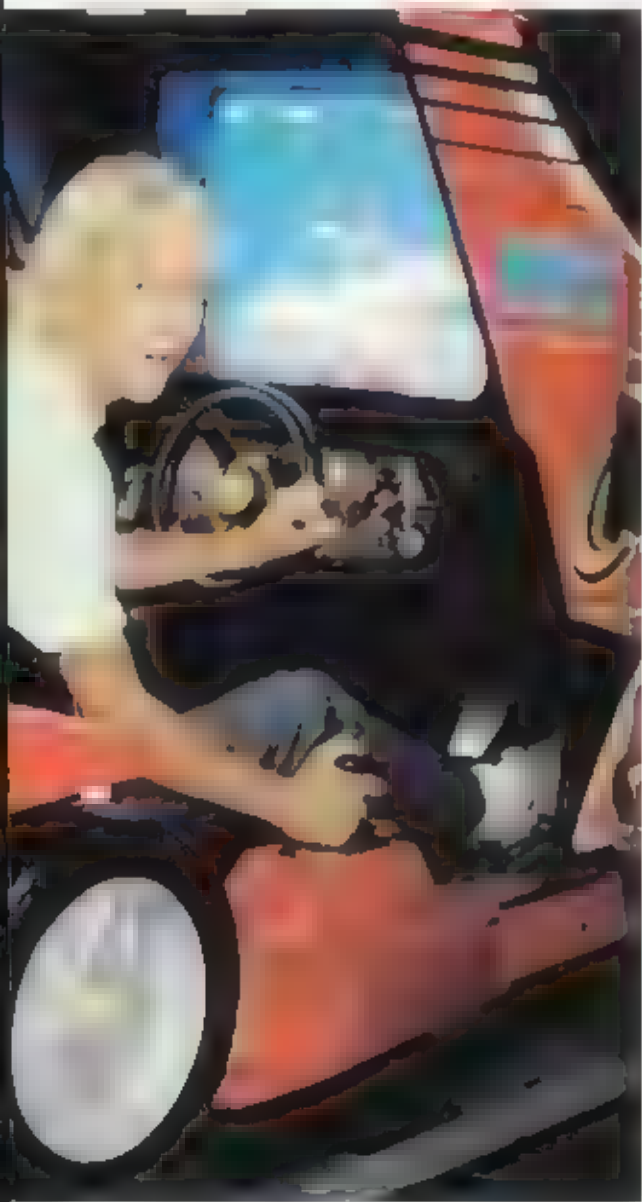

License plate frames that proclaimed "He who has the most toys wins!" heralded a shower of goodies that fell on the lucky at Lakewood. In an era of increased disposable income and more leisure time, many students found ways to both spend their extra money and buy the toys that made young adults happy. Scooters were as much a fun item as they were transportation, and, speaking of transportation, limousines had become an almost ordinary experience for the Class of 1988. Jet skis, surfboards, water skis, snowmobiles, four-wheel drive vehicles and convertibles with cellular telephones were all part of Lancer life. Amusement parks provided more thrills, as students spent many a moment at Disneyland, Knott's or Magic Mountain. Toys were us, and we had a blast!

1. A stretched Lincoln limousine with all of the accouterments, including color television and a telephone, allowed Kelli LeFebvre and Amy Hunter to enter the world of luxurious playthings. 2. bumper boats were the cooling weapons which enabled David Hughes and Shawna Clark to take out their aggressions on a pond. 3. As the varsity cross country team began its daily run, the coercion of Coach Reyes impressed Scott Green with the importance of pining himself. 4. Jacuzzis were one of the more popular "toys" and were the choice method of relaxation for Terry Flake, Rosalyn Engler and Kelli LeFebvre. 5. The downtown marina was an ideal spot for brother and sister pleasure seekers Steve and Wendy Spies who took time out from their busy school schedule for some family fun. 6. Everyone knew that John Albertson was just an overgrown kid, but few realized to what lengths he would go to say he drove a race car. 7. Superheroes' best transportation, whenever they were called, scooters were fun for all. Schmiering Rami Diaz and Pamela Clark. 8. Electronic host phones with answering devices were no match for Ross Shanberg's cellular phone installed in his father's Atlanta. 9. Mrs. Ott's new waxing technique made her Jaguar shine. 10. A trip to Lil' Indy allowed Pete Marino to squeeze ahead of Larry Lugin as they raced their nifty machines toward the finish line.

THE SECRET INGREDIENT

What were the secret ingredients that seemed to be mixed in just the right proportions and that enabled students to have a great time while making the right decisions? There was no special recipe; however, a prevailing attitude at the school of being able to find help when it was necessary for almost any problem that arose was in a large measure responsible for the many successes that took place. Administrators' doors were open, teachers could be counted on for advice as well as knowledge, counselors bent over backwards to do more than their share, coaches spent countless hours teaching sportsmanship as well as the fundamentals of the game, and parents really cared, even at times when all seemed to be lost. The secret ingredient was a staple called love

1. As she waved good-bye from the tarmac at the Long Beach airport, Tracy Wilbanks embarked on Alaska Airlines for yet another adventure. 2. The secret ingredient for extra energy was obviously not the same for everyone as Ronnie Torres grabbed some extra protein before school. 3. Fine Abel's assistance was a key factor in assuring the success of the automotive students helping Mr. Irwin put his Porsche back together. 4. With an gleam in his eyes, Chef Keith Miller used a bunsen burner to prepare his specialty, Frog legs in Room 318. 5. Cassandra Brandt wondered how accurate her likeness would be after the Shoreline Village artist had sketched it. 6. Carl Rodriguez and Linh Nguyen were amazed at the electronic wizardry performed by Mr. Patten. 7. Great table service was not difficult to find for Connie Messineo as long as James Filius was willing to be a waiter and prepare the menu. 8. One of the primary ingredients in the success of the LHS Marching Regiment was the drum line which was always climbing the walls. 9. Everyone needed friends and we of the LHS buddies in campus were cheerleader Joey Lujan and song girl Carla McNeil. 10. Sergeant Tony, the Lakewood Army recruiter, showed Robert Kroll, Scott Workman and Shan Hughes some of the more attractive options that awaited them after high school graduation.

THE BOTTOM LINE

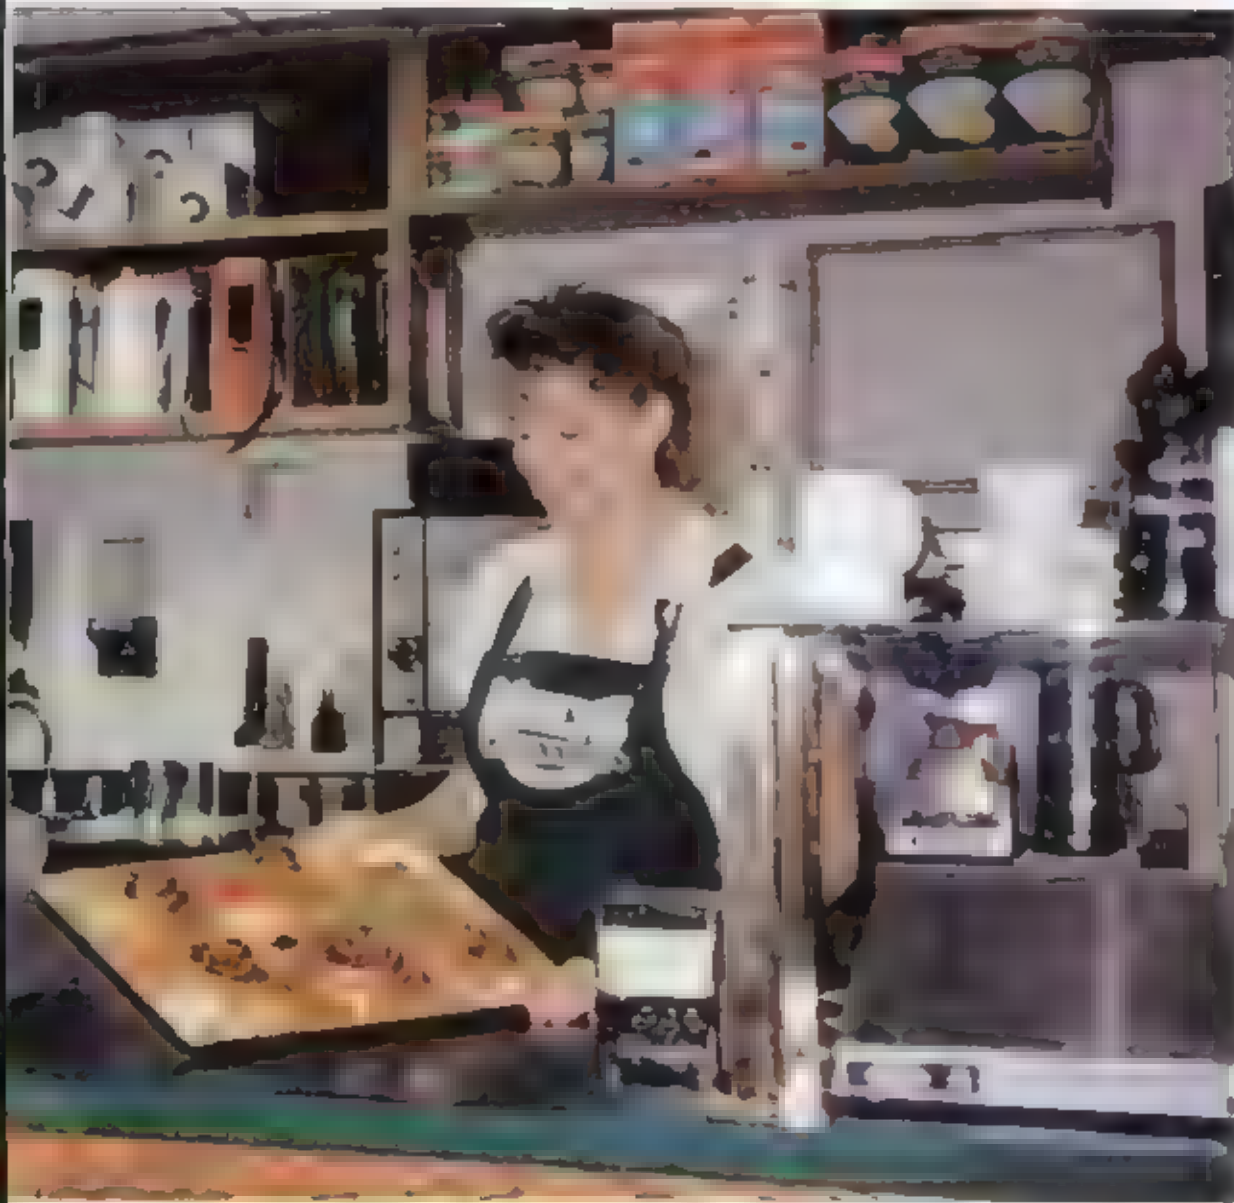

After the ring of the seventh period bell, a "different" life began for most Lancers. Most understood that to make it through life that a job to help earn that extra money was essential. Whether it was to make the bucks for such necessities as car insurance or clothing, or whether it was going to be used for something more frivolous such as flowers for the special someone, the job was the tool that brought freedom and slavery at the same time. The more a person worked and made, seemingly, the more he spent; the more he spent, the more work he had to do. Although the cycle seemed like a vicious one, it was a part of life that just had to be. Preferably a person made more than the $3.35 minimum wage and was not working in fast food, but any job would do.

1 In an unusual display of creativity, Tom Hulg cruised through the Taco Bell drive-through on his bike. 2 Von's supermarket was extremely pleased that they could always count on Crystal Huck to bag those groceries in a friendly and efficient manner. 3 Pavilions sales were stacked high with delicious produce thanks to the efforts of Eli Ellison. 4 Monday Night Football drew throngs of sports fans to the Red Onion and kept hostess Amy Shaw on her toes. 5 The city council chambers were always well-organized due to the efforts of one of Sycamore Plaza's finest employees, Duke Lim. 6 Chuck E. Cheese's train provided the ideal opportunity for Tracey Levin to return to her childhood. 7 Preparation of delicious delights made Arianne Snyder famous. 8 Brian Neel served the best cinnamon rolls at Kelly's Coffee. 9 Starting a child on the path to future success was one of the goals of Nancy English as she taught gymnastics. 10 Escorted by hostesses Kim Rokaki and Kim Harpham, Morris Adger prepared to enjoy his meal. 11 One of Carlos Iriarte's favorite gustatory delights was a hot dog on a stick. 12 Feeding the Lancer hot slices of pepperoni pizza was one of the avocations of Marnie Tucker and Katrina Williams. 13 On his way to graduation, Fred Gutierrez grabbed a quick pick-me-up in the form of a "happy meal" from McDonald's.

LET'S CELEBRATE!

From the very first day of school in the alphabetical registration sections until the last tear was dried at graduation, Lancer involvement in the spirit of life was unique among schools. In an enthusiastic display of verve and vitality, they participated in wildly creative activities which made life worth living. Whether it was on-campus or not, students had a sense of celebration. Birthdays were proclaimed by Chamber of Commerce posters, as well as by bouquets of balloons and bunches of cut flowers. Special occasions, such as anniversaries, became excuses for really going all-out with limousines and dinners at fancy restaurants. Traveling was a cause to celebrate in itself; Lancers could be found everywhere from Shoreline Village to European capitals enjoying every minute.

1. Shoreline Village and Parker's Lighthouse proved the right setting for Junior Class President Lisa Johnson to spend some time in the sun with her friend, Lisa Harmon. 2. Junior Senate members spent a memorable day at the beach riding the carousel and shopping. 3. A quarter, a telescope and a sharp pair of eyes allowed Jayme Reynolds to survey the new Long Beach skyline. 4. After pushing her junior varsity volleyball team to the limit with hours of after school practices, Coach Cathy Nicholson was finally given her due. 5. A little sunshine, of which there was very little in the Fall, and a great pool were the only excuses the Senior Senate needed to meet at the Shanberg's house for a pool party. 6. Ol' Sweet Tooth, the friendly Rocky Mountain Chocolate Company's mascot, gave a warm greeting to visiting Lancer, Lori Pehoski. 7. Great skateboarding form was a trademark for Brandon Van Heynigen. 8. After an all-out sprint to the finish line, a very-pregnant Coach Carol Cape jubilantly crossed the line in the LHS Maternity 10K as the girls' cross country team cheered her on. 9. How did Vikki Yount achieve her lifelong goal of shooting crazy string through Fred Maxwell's brain? 10. Cruising the campus at lunch was a trip for Michelle Ferguson and Connie Clark. 11. The varsity volleyball team slid into another well-deserved victory.

JUST KIDDING

BAM! POW! WHAM! GEE! OH, NO! Anything could happen and it usually did. For some it was just kidding; for others it was misfortune turned into funny memories that would last a lifetime. Who in the world would really practice ski maneuvers on a grassy knoll, or have a duck hunt at Heartwell Park? Lancers would, that's who! And they had a ball as they pretended to surf in the school's pool, rode huge breakers in Hawaii with their friends, got cracked over the noggin with tennis racquets, or just kicked back and watched that creepy spider make a web on a nose. Jokes, both practical and impractical, were objects to be cherished because they made life fun and worth living. Having a great time was an important part of life at Lakewood. OH, GOSH! IT'S GRADUATION!

1 As they donned their survival outfits, Shann Thrasher, Sorella Beard and Lon Sims discovered that their "enemies" were really sitting ducks. 2 In an attempt to get all of her telephone conversations taken care of in a single afternoon, Carla McNeil resorted to a novel approach. 3 The irrepressible Mr. Wood took the time to meet a new friend while he was on his yearbook odyssey. 4 Surfing out to the max, Joey Lujan led his friends on a magical mystery tour of one of the great curls of the azure blue Pacific. 5 Paul Ramirez came face-to-face with a drugstore Indian and did not know quite what to make of it. 6 Some days it was just too far to drive to Bolsa Chica or to Huntington, on those occasions surfer Don Mathewson found the solution was to take his trusty board to the natatorium for a little rest and relaxation. 7 Awareness of what was happening around him was not Coach Kreb's strong suit as he was about to be bashed over the head by Leticia Romero. 8 Would Billie Jo Flake really drive her brand new Mercedes 190 into a group of 11 year olds? 9 At times Kristen Kruse really got bugged at Lakewood High School. 10 An unsuspecting Brad Erlanson was about to be pelted with a water balloon by his trusty sidekick Clarence Shaver. 11 Diminutive Matt Cohen's ambition in life was to emulate one of his childhood idols, Bob's Big Boy.

THIRST FOR THE BEST

A thirst that could not be quenched with ordinary potions was the desire to do the absolute best a person could do no matter what the area of endeavor. Poor grades were usually an indicator of bad work habits; conversely, touchdown passes, perfect solos, elegant essays, good grooming, grades to be proud of, meticulous manners, Moore League titles or just a "C" on a test that was the toughest one ever were signs that a person cared about what happened in his life and that there was some control over most things that a person participated in.

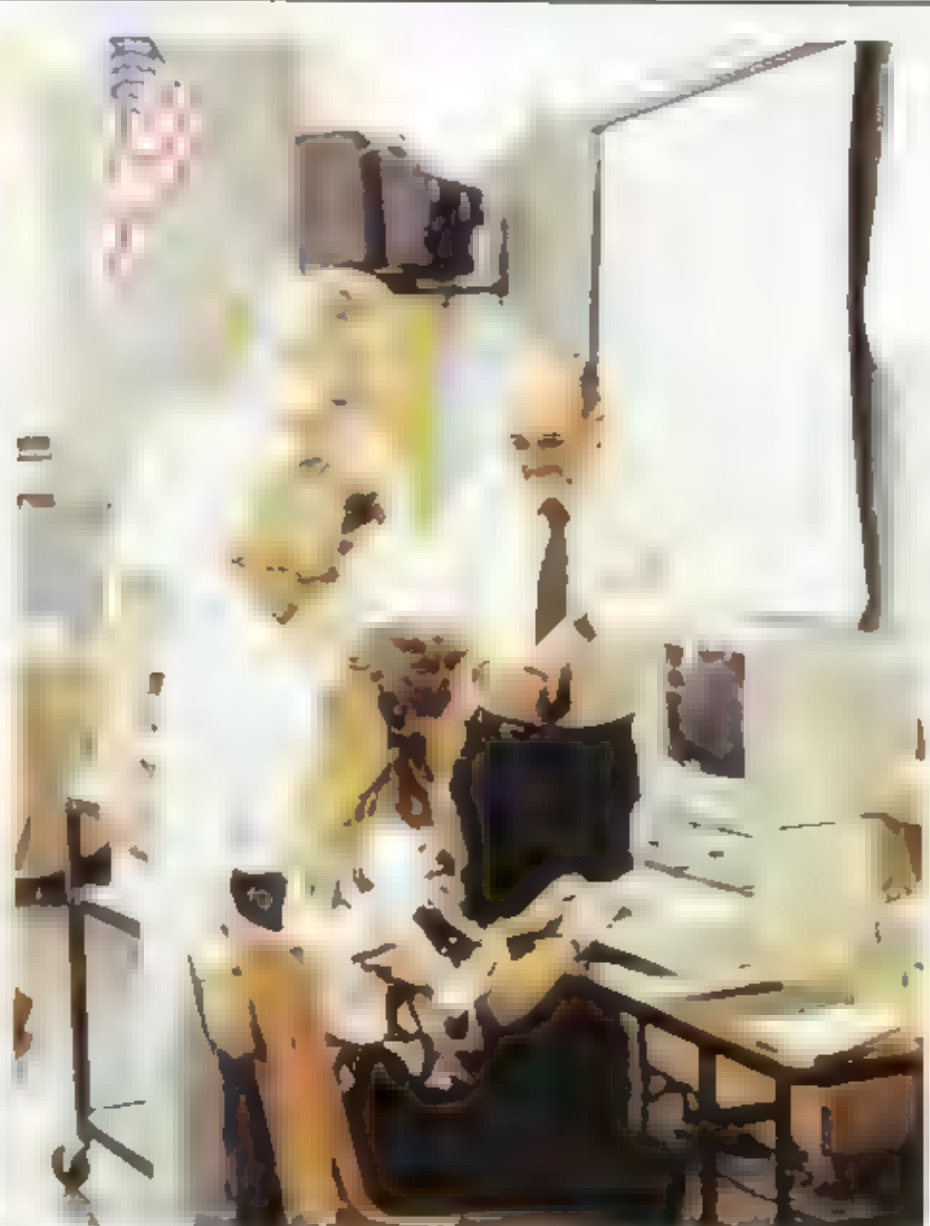

Feeling good about school, friends, homelife and work was possible when the course that was set was a positive one. The fountain that satisfied the thirst for the best was knowing that a person had done all that he could do.

1. One of the best places on campus to find the latest electronic gadgetry was Mrs. Gunn's media center. 2. Scanning college catalogues, Mrs. Morris provided invaluable assistance to Cathy Roberts. 3. Flashcards were an essential part of keeping up with all of the information teachers expected students to retain, past masters at the art were Darren Gibson and Sherlyn Bishop. 4. "Parlez-vous, pas du tout?" was the question posed by Mrs. Robey to her erstwhile student, Tim Madsen. 5. Greg Johnson held the plunger set to ignite Mr. Shafer's homework assignments. 6. The school's expert on scholarships, Counselor Dave Beard, freely gave of his time so that students like Charles Park could have the best chance possible in garnering an award. 7. The wonders of the computer were brought to the social studies classroom in practical applications that Mr. Sparkman taught to Denise Connell. 8. A new program was the introduction of personal wellness for the LHS staff, including the physical examination given to Phil Riley. 9. Mrs. Kroll led her sophomore honors English class to new horizons. 10. Sean Morgan showed how to execute a power water polo pass. 11. Marvelous saves on the volleyball court were routine for outstanding player Debbie Kennedy. 12. The LHS orchestra was filled with talent, soloist Jennifer Foreman mastered the art of playing the clarinet.

this progression from childhood until graduation was a series of steps that prepared people to walk the path of life finally dawned on students. On that fateful June evening parents proudly proclaimed that the student in the crimson cap and gown was theirs.

1. As they proudly led the graduation procession, the M. R. J. C. (a) sets poster the colors. 2. Jumping with joy at the prospect that his high school years were finally behind him, Scott Lane quickly dispatched his books. 3. One of the dearest memories of some members of the class of 1988 senioritis could be quickly cured by a visit to school nurse Florence Lee. 4. The culminating social event of every senior's year was the prom, it was the cause for times of great fun and fancy outfits for Gary Howard and Tim Meyers. 5. Principal William Hopkins congratulated Ron Torres and his parents, Robert and Nancy, before the ceremonies began. 6. Dressed in gowns of black, family members Dave Beard, Mary LeFever, Carol Cape, Tim Miltenberger and graduating teacher Thomas Daugherty prepared to lead the academic procession. 7. Angie Samuels and the singing of the Alma Mater for one last time. 8. Chris Nite was a senior at Lakewood who had over one half of the class participated in. 9. Decorated cars and the going together of great friends were part of the farewell proceedings for Kacey Blahowicz. 10. The class rings and diploma were visible signs of pride and success. 11. Nadene Werner and Mike Schaper saw their mortar boards high above the administration building in a final and festive gesture as they were about to become Lakewood graduates.

The Lakewood High School Homecoming Queen, Her Court and Escorts

"Blast from the Past"

"Blast from the Past" was an exciting homecoming theme that allowed the entire student body to become involved in activities that ranged from root beer guzzles to scavenger hunts. Each day represented a different era, beginning with the '50s and ending with the '80s. The homecoming faire and activities were the best in the school's history.

1. In a reminder of the flashdance craze of the early 1980s, Jodi Middleton danced "As a Maniac." 2. Mrs. Welke dazzled her mathematics students on the day she imitated Tina Turner. 3. The 1960s era evoked memories of hippies, love, peace and weird garb. David James, Aaron Cornell, Mike Yi and Chris Kimberly showed their true colors as they relived the past. 4. Blue jeans, white t-shirts, pony tails, leather jackets and hoop skirts allowed these Lancers to let the good times roll. 5. During a frenzied version of Creedence Clearwater Revival's "Proud Mary," Nancy English and Shannon Hunt showed everyone how to get down. 6. The 1970s reminded everyone of the disco era with such hits as "Saturday Night Fever" as Brian Lottas performed his imitation of John Travolta with great gusto. 7. JV Yell's spirited cheers from the 1950s brought down the house. 8. A really freaked-out Angie Samuels told her followers that the bases for spiritual awareness were peace, love and brown rice. 9. Staff Assistant Brad Erlanson put a friendly nab on disco dudes Matt Nuez, Tim Meyers and John Ridenour. 10. Flower children Cindy Fernandez, Noreen Thompson and Paula Tokar held a friendly sit-in to protest nuclear arms, war and the new 700 building fence. 11. Trendy Shannon Humphrey tripped out as a Madonna imitation. 12. Who would have ever believed that mild-mannered trio Malissa Mott, Billy Belman and Joe Narvez were true believers in flower power?

Cheer/Song/Flag/Majorette

"We can do it, Lancers, fire it up!" yelled the '88 LHS pep squads. Lakewood pepsters could be seen at every athletic event, as well as rallies and special events, showing their support for the school. It was extremely involved in school functions. The spectacular mounts, perfectly choreographed routines and stunning displays of agility took hours of rehearsal.

1. A difficult but stupendous mount was performed by Varsity Yell. 2. Michel Row, the distinguished Lancer majorette, was an eye catcher with her great routines. 3. Varsity Yell was famous for its daring stunts, as well as its never-ending spirit. The members were Martin Salvador, Angie Samuels, Jodi Middleton, Cindy Fern, Gisela Fonseca, Susan Wolf, DeAnna Pfeiffer, Cindy Meriz, Sandra Branul and Joey Lujan. 4. JV Yell was an inspiration for the entire student body. The members were Melanie Raskin, Denni Raymond, Mishel Narvaez, Marnell Tucker and Tammy Nelson. 5. Displaying the pride they felt for the school, Melanie Raskin and her friends sang the Alma Mater to the pep assembly and to the homecoming court. 6. The Varsity Song, "Varsity Song," was one of its up-beat songs. The members were Shannon Fitzpatrick, Noreen Thompson, Kristi Hunt, Shannon Hunt, Carla McNeil and Nancy English. 8. The JV Song, "JV Song," fizzled and aroused the crowd. 9. The JV Song, "JV Song," twirled the crowd to a frenzy. 10. The Varsity flag was among many squads which brought unity throughout the year. The members were Roxana Benavidez, Kim Elliot, Shannon Oates, Kathy Foote, Stacey Self and Tracy Parkman.

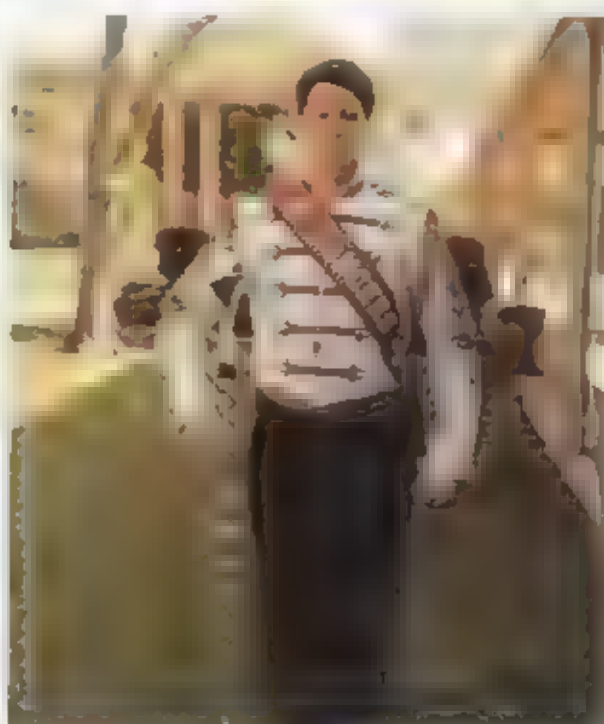

The Lancer Regiment

One of the primary sources of school spirit at LHS was the Lancer Marching Regiment. Not only did it appear at football games and rallies, but it bolstered spirit at homecoming and other special events. The Regiment included the band, the drill team and the color guard. In a co-ordinated effort they displayed their combined talents. One of the highlights of the year was marching down Disneyland's Main Street after which they were given an award for their fine performance.

Orchestra

As the lights were dimmed, a hush fell over the audience as the conductor's baton was raised to signal the beginning of another dazzling performance by the Lakewood High School orchestra. From the winter concert to the last notes played at the school musical, the musicians provided the school with some of the finest entertainment to be found anywhere. The elite group was under the direction of Ms Jan Olson, assisted by outstanding concert mistress Susie Park

ORCHESTRA

Vocal Music

Enchanting tunes generated by both the Second Chapter Singers and the Cecilian Singers could be heard campus-wide as the melodies often lingered on the lips of the singers once they had left the vocal music room. Audiences at more formal presentations, such as the Christmas show and the Spring Concert, were awed with the abilities and fine natural talents of these two groups. Under the expert direction of Mr. Ramirez, the Second Chapter Singers blossomed. Whether the music was modern or traditional, it was bound to please.

1. Bobby Dick and his friends harmonized beautifully during a rehearsal of the Second Chapter Singers. 2. Making music meant making friends for Shannon Hunt and Debbie Kennedy. 3. Cassie Fauber, Danielle Beeny and Misty Cooper became overly dramatic as they strove to reach high C. 4. Despite the long hours of practice, fun-loving Tom Cheeks always had time to relax with his friends. 5. The Cecilian Singers — First Row: P. Truit, K. Woods, D. Licht, K. Carmichael, C. Mendoza, M. Valencia, C. Lee, T. Epstien. Second Row: C. Ward, T. Taylor, K. Brown, T. Hawkins, M. Garcia, Y. Williams, N. Cave, L. Campbell. Third Row: S. Butcher, G. Marisca, K. Clark, T. Collins, T. NJ/ROTC

No organization at Lakewood High School possessed the pride, ability and camaraderie that was at the heart of the ROTC Unit. Under the careful guidance and care of Captain George Thompson and M/CPO Borchardt, the Unit strove to be perfect in whatever it attempted to accomplish. From standard Thursday morning inspections to the all-district drill competition, LHS cadets proudly displayed their uniforms. The tradition remained that Lakewood's ROTC Unit was the elite group among all in the city.

1. The Girls' Drill Team proudly served under the command of Lori Sims; the group included (left to right) D. Torres, A. Grageda, L. Marquez, A. Zosaya, S. Beard, C. Zosaya, J. Gegato, M. Moor and L. Lancaster. 2. The Cadet Officer Corps was responsible for the many sharp maneuvers in various competitions. First Row: A. Evans, L. Sims, J. Gegato. Second Row: S. Beard, D. Bresson, S. Thrasher. 3. The NJ/ROTC Unit would not have been successful without the sage advice and assistance of M/CPO LeRoy Borchardt. 4. The Unit was extremely proud to have Captain George I. Thompson for its naval science instructor. 5. The colors of the United States and of California were posted with pride and respect by B. Estrada, D. Torres, C. Salazar and J. Klein. 6. One of the most respected groups at Lakewood High School was the Boys' Silent Precision Drill Team; thunderous applause from fascinated audiences was heard at every performance. The Drill Team was composed of, from left to right, J. Owens, R. Castro, A. Ochoa, M. Har, Lort, D. Velarde, A. Evans, S. Thrasher, C. Randle, A. Arteaga, S. Bigam, D. Bresson, R. Dominick, R. Kirk. 7. The NJ/ROTC Unit was the most diligent group on campus; it could be counted on to perform admirably in any task it was given.

Advanced Dance

As it captivated audiences with its style, grace, beauty and ability, the Lakewood advanced dance class was given accolades after each of its performances. Under the direction of Mrs. Janet Quinn, the girls strove to maximize each rehearsal minute in an attempt to hone their skills. The dedication, leadership and friendship were evident in each of the dances the girls presented. Whether it was formal or ultra-modern, everything from the can-can to arabesques was performed with perfection.

1. Amber Hooten and her friends struck a final pose to finish an exciting routine. 2. Stacey Oates, Kim Corbett, Billie Jo Flake and Crystal Huck kicked their legs high into the air as they did the version of "A Chorus Line." 3. In an amazing display of agility and talent, superstar Angie Samuels did an awesome toe-touch. 4. The Advanced Dance Class - First Row: N. Davis, R. Woody, T. Ramos, M. Noriega, B. Flake, J. Herrera, K. Chiem, M. Howeth, E. Medina, T. Tesaluna, S. Kuroquira. Second Row: A. Hooten, K. Corbett, C. Huck, M. Polion, B. Caspedes, K. Wood, L. Trías. Third Row: B. Thompson, T. Dietrich, N. Thompson, S. Oates, A. Samuels, T. Steinecker, M. Brownlee. 5. Stacey Kuroquira and Mahia Brownlee sailed through the air to finish another successful routine. 6. A unique pose was perfected by Tracy Young, Kim Stacey, Kuroquira, Tara Dietrich and Mahia Brownlee. 7. "Center Stage" was the name for the Advanced Dance chorus line. 8. Noreen Thompson showed poise and confidence in her successful arabesque. 9. Janet Prowett was given the group's congratulations on becoming Mrs. Quinn.

Dance

Although a great deal of attention was always showered upon the members of the advanced dance class, few realized that in order to become proficient in dance, one had to learn the fundamentals first. These were taught by expert dance instructor Janet Quinn in both her intermediate and beginning dance classes. Starting with the basic movements, plus lots of stretching exercises to limber up, the students gained experience in how to perform both individually and as groups. The next step in the process was learning how to choreograph routines that would fit a certain song. Difficulty in this task was often encountered because of the complexity of the undertaking. However, once a group leader determined which steps and moves went where, she was able to complete the assignment. Of course, an audience was the vital ingredient that was necessary to determine whether or not a successful routine had been born and if it were properly performed and co-ordinated with the music. Therefore, the girls put on dance concerts in an effort to show an admiring public and parents alike that their efforts were not just worthwhile, but worthy of the attention as well. The beginning and intermediate classes were the fountains from which sprang the talent for future advanced dance classes.

1. The Maria Serrano Troupe proudly struck a pose during rehearsal on Center Stage. 2. Monica Mok led the way as the girls performed a fast-paced number. 3. The 1988 Dance Class — First Row: M. Serrano, T. Kimble. Second Row: P. Ramirez, M. Lapidario, T. Cason, M. Ortega, A. Izzararaz, H. Ou, A. Leib, R. Gonzalez, M. Mok. Third Row: C. Lee, R. Flores, S. Mendez, C. Chim, S. Lopez, A. Lopez, S. Kruoch, T. Vaughn, M. Ascencio, E. Rodriguez. Row Four: M. Weisman, T. Fenton, I. Hegglin, D. Gipson, S. Brink, K. Wood, A. Preciado, C. Chhan. 4. Tiffany Kimble and her friends joined together to show off their talents. 5. Beginning dancers posed with style. 6. The abilities of beginning dancers was reflected in their varied routines.

"You're a Good Man Charlie Brown"

Although "You're a Good Man Charlie Brown" was a musical containing only two acts, its immense popularity stemmed from both the professional adaptation by the director and the students and a continued love affair with comic strip characters. The situations encountered by Charlie Brown, a bland, wishy-washy, timid, and lonely type were full of humor and pathos as he learned to accept his fate. Smug little Lucy, in her insufferable way, along with her light-headed friend Patty, added to the high-jinx. Lucy's younger brother, Linus, with his bright analytical mind, was seemingly always present, as was his security blanket. Schroeder, who was as enraptured with music as Lucy was in love with him, kept things on the up and up, along with make-believe ace, Snoopy.

1 Lucy explained "little known facts" to Linus, as Charlie Brown listened in complete disbelief. 2. The baseball antics of the Peanuts Gang were highlighted during the musical number "The Baseball Game." 3. Lucy offered inexpensive, but "always accurate" advice to an extremely depressed Charlie Brown. 4. An overly enthusiastic Patty attempted to motivate a less-than-eager Snoopy into going out and chasing rabbits. 5. Snoopy, in a flight of imagination, became a famous fighter pilot. 6. Lucy was always offering advice although it was not always positive, to the often wishy-washy Charlie Brown. 7. A gathering of Charlie, Linus, Snoopy, Schroeder and Lucy proclaimed that "You're a Good Man Charlie Brown." 8. All of the characters posed with their hero. 9. Lucy, Linus, Charlie Brown and Schroeder had difficulty completing an assignment on "Peter Rabbit" in the musical number, "The Book Report." 10. Charlie Brown was bewildered by Lucy's explanation to Linus about the facts of nature. 11. Lucy casually discussed a dress pattern with Patty, as Charlie Brown sits "hiding" under a paper bag from a cute, little red-headed girl. 12. Lucy sang of her dream of marrying Schroeder, but Schroeder was too engrossed in his music to be bothered with such trivia.

"Up the Down Staircase"

"Hi, teach!" were the first words to greet Sylvia Barrett, an attractive new teacher at Calvin Coolidge High School in New York City. Students poured into the classroom — cautious, testing, challenging. Simultaneously, a blizzard of paper work, warnings, contradictory orders and vague instructions befell the novice. As she became frantic, Sylvia began to fear that she did not even understand the language. Soon, however, Sylvia found herself the most involved person in the school — involved in the start of a romance in a near war with a discipline-over-everything administrator but most of all involved in the unexpected and sometimes heartbreaking problems of her students.

1. Vice Principal J. J. McCabe (Scott Williams) with Ms. Barrett (Keri McKenzie) and school friend (Patrick Johnson). 2. Ms. Barrett enjoyed a letter from her school teacher friend. 3. The school librarian (Deana Green) and two English teachers look on (Dana Rutledge and Terese Davis). 4. Drama coach Paul Williams and his advisor (a class president) in a play. 5. Alice (Brynn Foster) daydreamed about Mr. Barringer, the handsome English teacher. 6. Members of Ms. Barrett's English class were disruptive at times. 7. School staff members Ella Friedenberg (Deana Green) and Safie Finch (Laurie Neall) discuss the suggest on boxes in Ms. Barrett's classroom. 8. Alice (Brynn Foster) introduced herself to Ms. Barrett (Keri McKenzie) as Katherine, a student aide (Stacey Calura) looks on. 9. Ms. Barrett and Mr. Barringer shared a relaxed moment between classes. 10. Ms. Barrett's students engaged in a bit of horseplay before class (Alex Urin, Jeremy Vargas, Scott Park, Patrick Johnson and Wayne Chandler).

Crazy With Love, Lakewood High School's winter formal, was the social highlight of the season between homecoming and the prom. Excitement ran rampant as the evening unfolded; a lively DJ with video capabilities and clever theme dances provided outstanding entertainment. A unique technique allowed the dancers to either view themselves on screen, or previously taped segments of couples arriving at the dance. The brightly decorated room at the Buena Park Hotel was added impetus for everyone to have a great time. Although the dancing ended at midnight, the good times and spirit of friendship were qualities that would last a lifetime.

1. The dance floor was a wild and crazy place to be on the night of the winter formal. 2. Some awesome, although bizarre, dance moves were spontaneously performed by that terrific trio, Ming Lao, Billy Belman and Ron Torres. 3. The members of the Fall Cabinet class formally posed for the photographer. 4. Jeff Corbett proudly displayed the grand prize of the garter dance. 5. No one could help having a great time when friends included such ex-troverts as Michael Yi, DeAnna Pfeiffer, Tim Meyers and Nancy English. 6. One of the most fun-loving groups at the dance was led by Jenny Gilliland. 7. Angie Samuels and Anthony Jones danced the night away. 8. David Shook had a certain flair when it came to specialty dances. 9. Robert Leonard, Dianna Torres, Kathy Orgeron and Chris Randle enjoyed a romantic evening together. 10. Good times were shared by the Shan Cartwright Gang as they took time out to relax. 11. The evening was captured forever for Deborah Kennedy and Mister Jones as they posed for their photo. 12. Rosanna Benavidez was amazed by the dancing skills of Robb Brooks. 13. Cabinet

The members of the LHS Cabinet were the school's knights of the round table. From rallies to the prom, they made the momentous decisions and organized the affairs into great successes. Although the leadership changed on both the student and staff levels at the semester, the excellent quality that Lancers expected in all of their events was a constant

1 After many a grueling day trying to juggle schedules, arrange for homecoming booths, deciding on the backgrounds for the winter formal, planning the prom and just attempting to answer ten million questions a minute, Mr Cole's stress point was finally reached. All-Student Body President Nicki Naylor was in charge of arranging a successful Fall agenda, including homecoming, rallies and assemblies. 3. Everyone who participated in the Fall Cabinet did not contribute equally to all of the tasks involved, however, each person brought a special talent which was used to make the programs sponsored by the Cabinet such a success. Pride of membership was written on each of the student council members' faces. 4. All-Student Body Vice President Nancy English worked in partnership with the President to make certain that the job was accomplished with skill and grace. 5. A canned food drive was all it took to box Poor Peter Cole and send him packing. 6. As incoming activities director Mr Wickman did not have much time at the semester to learn the ropes, he dove into the work that ensured the success of all of the Spring activities. The cabinet members both old and new welcomed him to LHS. 7. All-Student Body President Nancy English had been waiting in the wings for the big job. 8. Perhaps the Spring Cabinet felt this was the proper way to haze their new leader. 9. All-Student Body Vice President Lyssa Armenta kept the ball rolling.

With the advent of the U.S. Supreme Court's ruling that censorship was permissible in high school publications, some felt that freedom of the press may have been put in jeopardy. However, that was not the case at Lakewood High School. The budding journalists under the guidance of advisor Darlene Ott were able, anxious and alert. Complete freedom of the press allowed them to investigate and to inform; the LANCE was the instrument used to convey all matter of news and sports information to the student body. Under the leadership of Editor-in-Chief Aissa Juarez the articles were crisp, the deadlines were met, and nine excellent issues were produced.

1. Ms. Ott gave helpful advice to Crystal Hunt and Workman. Lisa McAllister, Aissa Juarez and Paul Garcia. 2. The editors of the LANCE were Kim Fish, Aissa Juarez, Stephanie Valarde and James J. Garcia. 3. Kim Fish showed satisfaction with her page one article. 4. Beginning journalism class included — First Row: M. Casian, T. House, M. Hobbs, A. Shriver, A. Shaw, N. Thompson, V. Davis, T. Citadel

What an experience it must have been to compile the memories of a year at Lakewood High School. Although there were serious events, including the earthquake that shook the school, most of the work of the Citadel class involved portraying the positive aspects of student life, academic and extra-curricular. As they spent extra hours attempting to make sure each name was correctly spelled and each student was in at least one picture, the task took on an awesome aura. However, by sharp organization and diligence, the Citadel staff was able to complete every page on time and produce a yearbook of which the student body could be proud.

1. Even busy editors including Ron Torres, Cindy Fernandez, Tim Meyers, and others took time out for some smiles. As the staff worked to put the yearbook together, they found time for some fun. 2. Among the most active "Citadelians" were the members of the Work Crew. 3. Partners in crime included Cindy Mertz, DeAnna Pfeiffer, Soo Kwon and Jackie Barnett. 4. The sports section was led by stand-out editor Ming Leo. 5. Ryan Jones looked good in his first period class.

FOOTBALL

After a slow start, the Lancer football squad caught fire and captured a CIF playoff berth. A loss to Wilson maddened the team, however it warmed them up for top-ranked Poly. Poly pulled out all of the stops to squeeze by a hot Lakewood team, 29-28. Everything hinged on the final game with Millikan; not only was a CIF spot on the line, but also the coveted Hamilton Trophy. Millikan proved no match as standouts Matt Nuez, Anthony Jones, Billy Belman and Dan Sobschak buried them 14-7. Although they lost to Bishop Amat in CIF, Coach Melvin and his team were proud of their successes.

1 All-South Coast First Team running back Anthony Jones sprinted past the Jordan defensive unit 2. Quarterback Matt Nuez was instrumental in the success of each play as he gave fast accurate directions to the Lancer kick-off team 3. Field goals and long punts were vital weapons in the Lakewood arsenal 4. Expert Jim Corpus booted another one away 4. The Varsity Football Squad 5. An ecstatic Dave Razo celebrated each touchdown with a valiant leap in the air 6. Recapturing the Hamilton Trophy, the symbol of the long-established rivalry between Lakewood and Millikan, was a cause for jubilation among the entire team 7. Defensive standouts Joe Marsh and Fred Maxwell teamed up to record a successful Lancer sack of the Panther's quarterback 8. Running back Frank Torres could always find the handle on the ball 9. Number 33, Fred Maxwell, masterfully eluded a Poly defender on his way for a big upfield gain 10. The sterling success of quarterback Matt Nuez's aerial attack was the deciding factor in many of the Moore League games

JV/SOPH FOOTBALL

Stellar performances were the hallmarks of the athletes on the junior varsity and sophomore football teams. Co-Moore League champions, the JVs possessed both the talent and the determination to come out on top. All-stars Mike Fortune, Jeremy Pilchman and Raul Diaz played a strong game of keep-away with league defensive units. Although a proud Coach Simpson believed the record was not indicative of the calibre of play, he was more than satisfied to share the league title. The sophomores depended on strong performances from Geno Wilson, Ernest Paul, Robbie Fonseca and place kicker Steve Anderson to catapult them to success. With increasing size and strength, Coach Tereschuk predicted that the team would become a powerhouse as JVs.

1. As he penetrated deep into Jordan territory, Raul Diaz breezed by a Panther defender 2. Running back George Rangel turned the corner as he sprinted hard for the first and ten. 3. Behind the blocking of offensive expert Joe Johnson, Mike Fortune flew toward the goal line. 4. Quarterback Jeremy Pilchman dropped back to unload another spectacular aerial display 5. The Junior Varsity Football Team 6. Robert Fonseca stepped deep into the backfield for the pitch. 7. Kicker Steve Anderson booted it through the uprights. 8. Defensive standout Brian Sorenson annihilated the Bruin quarterback. 9. Robert Fonseca unleashed a deep threat. 10. The Sophomore Football Team. 11. The toss-up was won by Geno Wilson.

CROSS COUNTRY

Cross country was a sport in which individual efforts were compiled to get the final results for the team. Each runner was counted on for the best possible effort. Girls' cross country athletes understood how to work as a team as they posted a 4-1 Moore League record. Dena Dunlop, Maly Teng, Kim Cao and All-City Team standout Nicole Cortz were the core of the varsity squad. While the girls were pacing one another on the Heartwell course, the boys competed on the LHS campus layout. Great efforts paid big dividends for such great harriers as All-City selection Steve Weyand, Jeff Green and Scott Green. Sophomore Jose Villanueva performed amazingly well in his varsity debut. The JVs were very impressive, undefeated in dual meets, they were co-champions of the Moore League.

1. Led by top runners Kim Cao, RoseAnna Benevidez and Carmen Vega, the Lancers finished 1,2,3. 2. High-stepping Nicole Cortz carefully paced herself. 3. Concentration and determination were written on the face of Dena Dunlop. 4. Aska Soltow battled for first place. 5. The Girls' Cross Country Team. 6. Lakewood's JVs were led by Mark Jaynes and Jeff Green. 7. Finishing first was no problem for Chris Lovell. 8. Immersed in deep concentration, Casey Brooks was prepared to make a strong finish. 9. Crossing the finish line first was a habit for Steve Weyand. 10. Scott Green led the pack around the final turn. 11. The Boys' Cross Country Team. 12. An exhausted pair of runners, Manuel Diaz and Danny Maldonado, finish a grueling dual meet.

WATER POLO

Lakewood's water polo teams provided the fast-paced athletic action that gave many fans the incentive to make natatorium visits a habit. Super-players Keith Mortensen, Lonnie Venable, Greg Prosser and Chuck Cuellar tore the rest of the Moore League defenses apart. Although the numbers were sometimes tough to swallow, the record did not reflect the endurance and skills the varsity team possessed. Junior Varsity poloists were led by standouts Joe Lopez and Ari Cosores. Under the skillful direction of Coach Nicholson, the JVs took to the water with an aggressive attitude and the will to win. The sophomores were full of talent, but the stars were Chris Martyr and Mike Jemet. Overall, the poloists proved they could compete with the best.

1. Defensive poloists were amazed at Lonnie Venable's abilities. 2. Another score was chalked up by Rashid Ali. 3. Greg Prosser passed to the open man in order to gain position. 4. A swarm of defenders was unable to catch Chuck Cuellar. 5. The varsity team rallied behind Coach Nicholson's game plan. 6. The Varsity Water Polo Team. 7. Poly defenders gave little trouble to David Thome. 8. Shawn Moore did his impression of the impenetrable wall. 9. Getting a goal was an easy goal for Stacey Brown. 10. VOLLEYBALL

The Lancer volleyball team predicted that they would go for it this year, and they did. The only deterrent to a league title was the always tough Wilson squad; the Lancers finished a strong second with a league record of 8-2. In the first round of CIF competition, a strong Kennedy team was easily dispatched. However, in the second round the Lady Lancers succumbed to Marina. The varsity was carried by strong play from each starter, all of whom were named All-Moore League Team members. Debbie Kennedy, Michelle Haglund, Tina Van Renesse, Jennifer Baker and Margaret Stewart provided strong play, as well as Janine Ward who was named co-MVP of the Moore League. The junior varsity record of 6-4 was not indicative of the strength and agility of such players as Fatima Chavarria, Julie van Renesse, Heidi Wilson and Tiffany Hunt.

1 Debbie Kennedy was always reaching for the impossible. 2 Tina Van Renesse went high for a blistering spike. 3. Setting the ball was a specialty for Janine Ward. 4. Another spike was crushed by Michelle Haglund. 5. The Varsity Volleyball Team. 6. Making awesome sets was no problem for Heidi Wilson. 7. Connie Messineo put away another ball. 8. All-star Fatima Chavarria hit past a Bruin opponent. 9. A perfect pass was completed by Erika Brady. 10. Julie van Renesse made even the toughest plays look easy. 11. GIRLS' TENNIS

The girls' varsity tennis team possessed talent, poise and strength. Under the careful guidance of mentor-coach Pat Gonzales, the fundamentals were drilled in hours of practice. Although the varsity posted a disappointing fourth place finish in league, outstanding play could be counted on from such individuals as singles star Tracy Wilbanks, as well as the number one doubles duet of Courtney Pilchman and Tricia Stallings. Also finishing fourth in league play, the junior varsity could always be counted on to be strong contenders. Composed mostly of sophomores, the girls became informed about all aspects of the game. Juniors Annette Bolla and Alissa Yee helped the team immeasurably with their many victories

1. The two-handed backhand was Arianne Shrider's secret weapon. 2. Fun-loving Izzy Millan could always be counted on. 3. Penni Russell perfected the drop shot. 4. A beautiful drop shot was made by Leticia Romero as Kyle Krieg prepared herself for the returning volley. 5. Courtney Pilchman hit a devastating backhand. 6. The Girls' Varsity Tennis Team. 7. Adriana Barbosa's shot was perfectly placed. 8. Ruth Regalado and Debra Licti showed great tennis techniques. 9. Annette Bolla and Alissa Yee destroyed the opposition. 10. Shannon Humphrey and Dina Moraitis played diligently against tough competition. 11. The Girls' Junior Varsity Tennis Team. 12. Stacy Kirshman retaliated with a devastating forehand.

BOYS' BASKETBALL

Pre-season and early league play showed the prowess that made the polsters rank the Lancers a lofty number eight in the CIF. Returning as key varsity starters were star juniors Brian and Victor Camper. Point guard Elijah Anderson made the plays that were essential to a winning record. Another starter, Aaron Admas was important as he dominated the inside with his height and strength. Rod Albert and Aaron Cornell were the touch outside shooters, busting three-pointers from every angle. League play proved much more competitive than predicted, as the Lancers ended with a 17-9 record. The CIF opener was a thriller in which the Red Rage beat Loyola 69-68. The second round was just as exciting, with a 63-62 victory over Ocean View.

1. As he looked for an opening, Roddy Albert dribbled towards the basket. 2. Jordan's defense couldn't even come close to stopping sharp-shooter Elijah Anderson. 3. Victor Camper moved in for an easy lay-up. 4. Brian Camper powered past all of the competition to add two more points. 5. The Varsity Basketball Team. 6. As he sailed through the air to dunk another goal, Victor Camper amazed the Panthers with his skill and power. 7. Tipping forward in perfect form allowed Aaron Cornell to make the three pointer. 8. Airborn Aaron Adams aimed carefully as he pumped up another shot. 9. An assist was dished out by Brian Camper. 10. Eagle-eyed Elijah Anderson rose to the occasion as he went for the long shot. 11. The perfect jump shot was made by Brian Camper. 12. As he sensed where to move, sophomore Andre Miller displayed great strength in his offensive move.

JV/SOPH. BASKETBALL

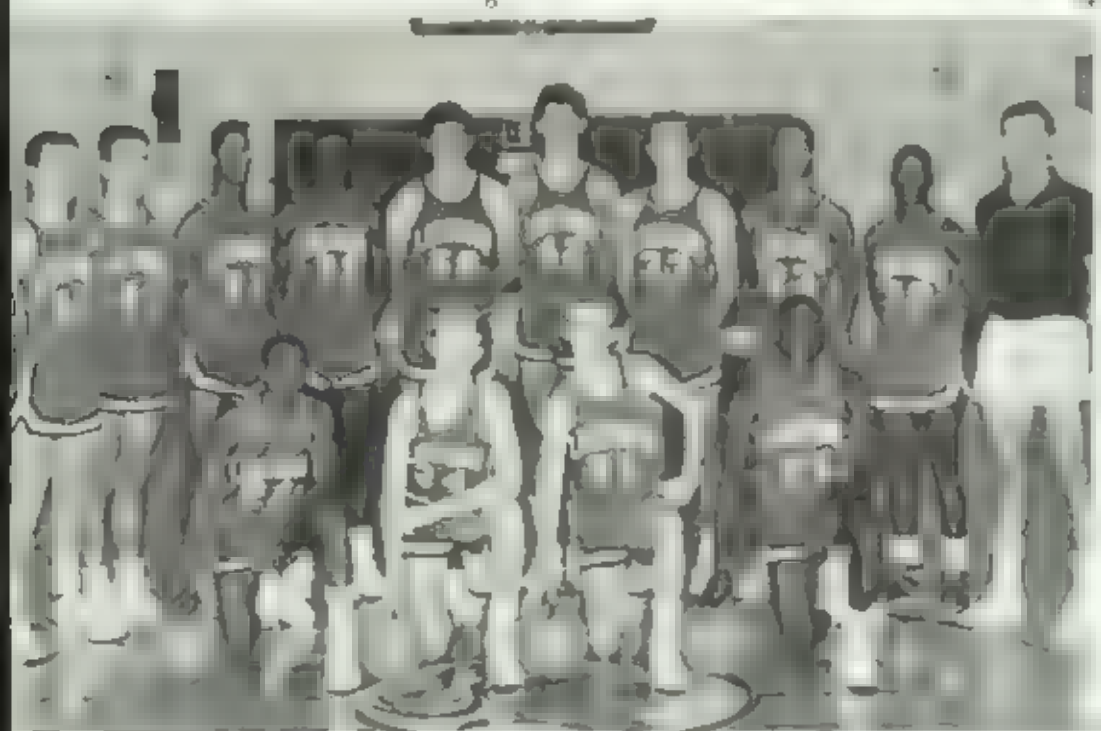

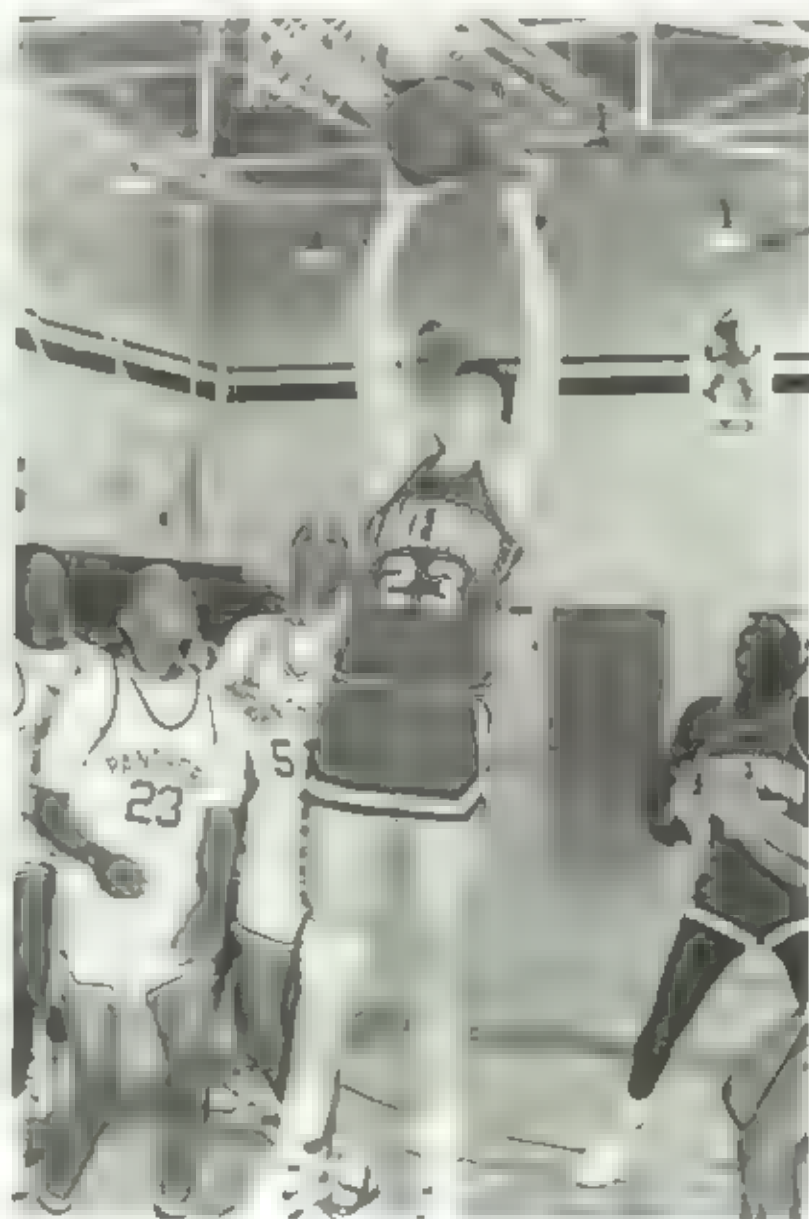

The boys' junior varsity basketball team was a hotbed of talent, it boasted of such outstanding players as Kenny Dixon, Hiram Burrus, Maurice Mack, Bob Moyer and Mike Martinson. As they followed their court strategy and listened to the sage advice of their coaches, the JVs were a power to contend with in both pre-season and league competition. The sophomores showed what it took to make the difference in any game; they possessed skill, talent, strength and intelligence. Coach Stoner's standouts included Dave Ness, Brian Sorenson and Steve Anderson. As they dominated their opponents, they gained the experience necessary to be future LHS stars

1. Against all odds, Hiram Burrus maintained perfect control 2. Tom Sellers cleared the court in a beautiful execution of a long jumper 3. Strategy was a key ingredient for success; however, Bob Moyer powered his way through the defense 4. Opponents were caught off-guard and were amazed when agile Mike Martinson began his ascent toward the net 5. The Boys' Junior Varsity Basketball Team 6. Setting up the offense was handled by U. Walker 7. Sophomore Brian Sorenson was a key player in the team's success for two 8. Coming off the fast break Dave Ness led the way 9. A successful fight for the rebound was won by John Kelley 10. GIRLS' BASKETBALL

After ending the season with a third place finish in league play and an overall record of 7-3, the girl's varsity basketball team was prepared to make the most of its CIF chances. After a first round victory over a tough Culver City squad, Coach Lawson and his standouts including, Margaret Stewart and Angela Clark, were ready to show that the team had what it took. The girls' junior varsity had several stars, including Marcela Vasquez, Eureka Turner and Kim Farr. Novice coach Rob Wigod planned the strategy and kept the hopes alive as the team finished second in Moore League competition.

1. Christie Hazelwood prepared to go over the defensive players. 2. The Panthers were no match for Margaret Stewart's prowess. 3. On the fast break, all-star Angela Clark pulled up for the jumper. 4. As she gracefully left the floor and became airborne, Tara Morrison showed the agility and power necessary to be one of the best. 5. The Girls' Varsity Basketball Team. 6. Margaret Stewart was a mistress of strategy as she out-manuevered her opponents to find an open player. 7. After an excellent box out, Eureka Turner grabbed the rebound. 8. Marcela Vasquez pulled the ball out to run the offense. 9. Marie Nelsen used her abundant dribbling skills to out-pace the defense. 10. As they displayed perfect team work, Cottrana Wynn and Lillian Guertler recovered a loose ball. 11. The Girls' Junior Varsity Basketball Team. 12. Superb form was shown by Annette Bulla as she drove down court for the lay-up.

BOYS' SOCCER

With several returning lettermen, Coach Flynn predicted a strong varsity squad. Outstanding players Kenny Harper, Luis Bermudez, Dan Christen and Rafael Rodriguez formed the nucleus of a solid team that was always in contention. After a first round CIF victory over Arcadia, the team was on its way. Meanwhile, the junior varsity team wrapped up another Moore League championship with an overall league record of 8-1-1. Solid play from Jerrod Savala, Mike Avila, Joel Cameron and Ricky Chavarrie guaranteed success; Coach North was understandably proud of his team's great accomplishments

1 As he made the long stretch, Dan Christen expertly moved the ball down the field 2 Rising to the occasion, Brian Lottes belted the ball with a loft pass 3 Terry Green blasted one as he came around with a full swing 4. Mastery of ball control was only one of Kenny Harper's many talents 5. The Boys' Varsity Soccer Team 6. Use of the ol' bounce em off the noggin trick allowed Ricky Chavarrie to remain conscious of every move. 7. A fast dribble downfield got Alex Rivera into scoring position. 8 Showing the look of a real pro, Joel Cameron deftly positioned the ball 9. Complete concentration on the part of Mike Avila demonstrated why the IVs were league champions. 10. GIRLS' SOCCER

Highlights of the girls' soccer season abounded; for the first time since 1986 Wilson was defeated by the Lancers. Coach Leslie Galpin was more than happy with the fine play turned in by such stalwarts as Arianne Shrider, Amy Shaw, Lisa Hobbs, Vicky Davis and Lisa Morissette. As they finished league, they were guaranteed a CIF berth; however, a strong Los Alamitos team dispatched all hopes in the first round. The JVs were terrific competitors. Outstanding players included Amber Linson, Ann Eble and Tammy Riley.

WRESTLING

Under the expert coaching of Terry Hughes and Pete Tereschuk the IHS wrestling teams became a threat every time they went to a match. Rebuilding the tradition of the great teams of the past, the 1988 version was full of talent and strength. Varsity standouts included Chris Sestito, Mike Ferguson, Rogelio Ramos and Mike Younger. Coach Tereschuk's philosophy of workout after workout paid big dividends for the IVs as they re-captured the Moore League championship.

1. Having heard the old expression, "All arms and legs", Dan Lopez had his work cut out for him as he attempted to drive his opponent to the mat. 2. Complete concentration is registered on the face of super-wrestler Jamal Hodges as he prepared to make the final maneuvers necessary for the pin. 3. Bob Caveness had the grit and determination it took to strong arm his opponent into submission. 4. Bodies twisted and turned under great pressure as Jeff Street prepared to make the final move. 5. The Varsity Wrestling Team. 6. In a great display to show what an upside-down and lopsy-turvy sport wrestling was, Richard Hoffman arched his body in a final attempt to survive a particularly grueling round. 7. Andrew Scott cradled his opponent to move one step closer to the pin. 8. The Junior Varsity Wrestling Team. 9. Many came to believe that there was no place left to go but down when Andrew Scott turned on the power.

BOYS' TENNIS

Several factors almost guaranteed the success of the boys' varsity tennis team. First, over one-half of the players were returning as members of the previous year's team. Second, outstanding leadership in the form of venerable coach Otto J. Krebs was a resource that any team would gladly welcome. Third, there seemed to be a new enthusiasm among all of the members of the team as demonstrated in practice matches. With such high hopes and great promise, junior Dennis Haggerty, along with seniors Paul Mallari, Billy Black and Jason Horst were counted on to lead the varsity throughout the season. The JV team always went for the gold in its quest to be the best. Under the guidance of Coach Riley, the team showed discipline and talent in its search for a Moore League crown. The courts contained such standouts as Raymond Nguyen, Nelson Cheung, Huy Nguyen and Thuc Dong.

1 Billy Black made a great back-hand volley 2. Brian Collison smashed one past his opponent. 3. The forehand was perfected by Tom Kroehling 4. Jason Horst blasts one 5. The Boys' Varsity Tennis Team. 6. Thuc Dong had great skill. 7. Doubles partners Paul Mallari and Greg Johnson loved to be victorious. 8. Steve Cho slammed one 9. A killer serve was the mark of Nelson Cheung 10. The Boys' V Tennis Team. 11. A beautiful drop shot was registered by Son Nguyen

VARSITY BASEBALL

After capturing the CIF title in 1987, the varsity baseball team was still hungry. With a strong defense, and an exceptional pitching staff, the team was ready to resume its long march to its ultimate goal of once again advancing to the CIF playoffs. Leading a talented infield were Chris Gomez, Don Couch and Shawn Nugent. All-League returning outfielders Matt Nuez, Ross Shanberg and Alfonso Gomez were expected to provide leadership, along with Billy Belman who provided great depth in the outfield. Rick Molnar, Ryan Jones and Dave Stark were the ace hurlers who continually shut down their opponents. With the expert guidance of Head Coach Spud O'Neil and his assistant, Rob Wigod, the Lancers continued the tradition of baseball excellence at Lakewood High School.

1. Billy Belman's quick feet got him back in time. 2. Keith Tripp framed another perfect strike. 3. Another long drive flew off Ross Shanberg's bat. 4. The Varsity Baseball Team. 5. Applying the tag was a specialty for Shawn Nugent. 6. Chris Gomez raced home for another Lancer run. 7. Matt Nuez awaited the umpire's call. 8. Ace hurler Rick Molnar sent another hitter back to the dugout. 9. Alfonso Gomez used his long stride to his advantage. 10. Another extra-base hit was recorded by Don Couch.

JV BASEBALL

The junior varsity baseball team possessed a great advantage over its rivals in the Moore League; it had seven returning starters. Well-stocked with pitching talent, the team relied on the skills of hard-throwing right-hander J.K. Leibzeit, the superior arm of Rich Lovan, and the "saver" Steve Proffitt. Scott Clark and James Filius were counted on to keep the score in Lakewood's favor. Catchers Scott Hogan and Oscar Ortiz were important members of the team. The JVs worked hard under new head coach Pete Tereschuk, who molded the various talents on the team into a force to be reckoned with. By striving for the best, the JVs rode to the top of the standings through diligence and talent.

1. A full cut was always delivered by Ted Stevens. 2. James Filius enjoyed a good game of pickle. 3. It was taken to the fence by Johnny Haberland. 4. Pitcher J.K. Leibzeit showed he could also field. 5. The Junior Varsity Baseball Team. 6. Jeff Marsh startled the fans by taking one deep during the opening game of the season. 7. A look of determination was registered as Steve Proffitt took to the mound. 8. Oscar Ortiz had great blocking style. 9. Gary Marsh made sure he touched base. 10. Coach Tereschuk was always willing to discuss the point. 11. Ricardo Gutierrez was the perfect second baseman.

BADMINTON/GOLF

"Smash the Birdie!" was the battlecry for those involved in the popular sport of badminton. Possessing great skills were standouts such as Melissa Santos, Raiza Ramos, Dorasy Paul, Allison Brown, Nang Seng and Raul Regalada. Meanwhile, on the grassy links of Southern California, the golfers could be found gaining advice from Coach Tom Dunphy. The team tried to do its best, but, more importantly, it learned the rules of sportsmanship involved in a polite game. They also had more fun and laughs than any other athletic group on campus. Team captain and scratch golfer Ming Lao kept such standouts as Darrin Dourte, Chris Spandle and Jeff Martin in the swing of things.

1 Outstanding doubles partners were Nang Seng and Maly So. 2 The ace was Dorasy Paul's badminton speciality. 3 Raul Regalada had a bullet return. 4 Forehand smashes by Melissa Santos spelled trouble. 5 The birdie was in for some hurt from Sokun Lao. 6 The Badminton Team. 7 Ming Lao knew the proper set-up. 8 A powerful sand explosion was caused by Jason Taylor. 9 Through impact, Darrin Dourte was awesome. 10 The Varsity Golf Team. 11 Juan Allen mastered the sport. 12 The Junior Varsity Golf Team. 12 Chris Spandle eagled again. 13 "Has it stopped?" pondered Jason DeRoche.

SWIMMING

Rising at dawn and staying until dusk was a familiar routine for those involved in the Lakewood swim program. Their two-a-day practices demonstrated their dedication and hard work. With that amount of practice, success in pre-season and league competition was almost assured. Head coach Bill Nicholson was proud to guide such swim stars as Rashid Ali, Lonnie Venable, Greg Prosser and Paul Henderson. The distaff side of the sport was lead by Coach Mike Whittington; his swimmers always posed a threat because of stellar performances from such athletes as Shanie Chambers, Stacey Brown, Kristina Riedman and the Kirshman sisters, Story and Stacy. Whether they were competing in tournaments, dual meets, co-ed matches or CIF finals, both the boys' and girls' swim teams were well-prepared and full of talent.

1 In an easy victory Rashid Ali showed his opponents how to do the breaststroke. 2 The Boys Varsity Swim Team. 3 Lancers had a great advantage with Lonnie Venable's dives. 4 The lead was a common position for standout Greg Prosser. 5 The Boys Junior Varsity Swim Team. 6 One gulp of air sustained Bethel Ford. 7 A strong stroke was displayed by Reanna Acevedo. 8 The Girls' Varsity Swim Team. 9 Beth Martyr pointed the way to victory. 10 The Girls' Junior Varsity Swim Team. 11 Underwater demolition of her opponents made Rachel Bertrand a real threat.

TRACK AND FIELD

Which sport required a combination of endurance, strength, intelligence and agility? Track and field encompassed so many aspects that it was mandatory to have these qualities. Coaches Rose and Cape did their best to make sure their numerous athletes were always ready to compete. Strong performances were registered by distance men Mike Schaper, Steve Weyand and Tobie Brown, while sprinters Tom Hicks and Gilbert Orbeso rounded out the track segment. Field events were led by Allen Sims, Mario Perez and Dan Sobschak. The girls' team was led by Denisha Parker, Shayla Warren, Nydra Phillips, Cynthia Osbey and distance runners Dena Dunlop and RoseAnna Benavidez. Jumpers Cynthia Washington and Christy Hazelwood, along with shot putters Margaret Stewart and Soretta Beard, balanced out the team.

1. Great ability and a desire to win allowed Cynthia Washington to fly to victory. 2. Soaring through the air, Denisha Parker cleared the hurdles with ease. 3. The Girls' Varsity Track Team. 4. In an indication of her future, Margaret Stewart points west. 5. The Girls' Junior Varsity Track Team. 6. The final stretch was where Tobie Brown really kicked. 7. Manny Camerino cleared the high jump bar with no problems. 8. The Boys' Varsity Track Team. 9. The sky was the limit for Gilbert Orbeso. 10. The Boys' Junior Varsity Track Team. 11. Mike Wedmore sailed clear of the bar.

GYMNASTICS

With an almost national pre-occupation with gymnastics, it was not unusual to encounter Lancers who had been involved with the sport since early childhood. Because of this fact, the competition became much tougher and the amount of expertise at the high school level had increased dramatically. Lakewood gymnasts were among the best; their talents and skills were honed by expert coach Cathy Nicholson. Strength, agility, poise and concentration were the qualities necessary to be a successful gymnast. Among Lakewood's brilliant stars were Nicole Werner in the all-around events, Tina England in floor exercises and Michelle Haglund on the vault. The combined efforts of the entire team were the factors which led to the team's hopes for another league championship.

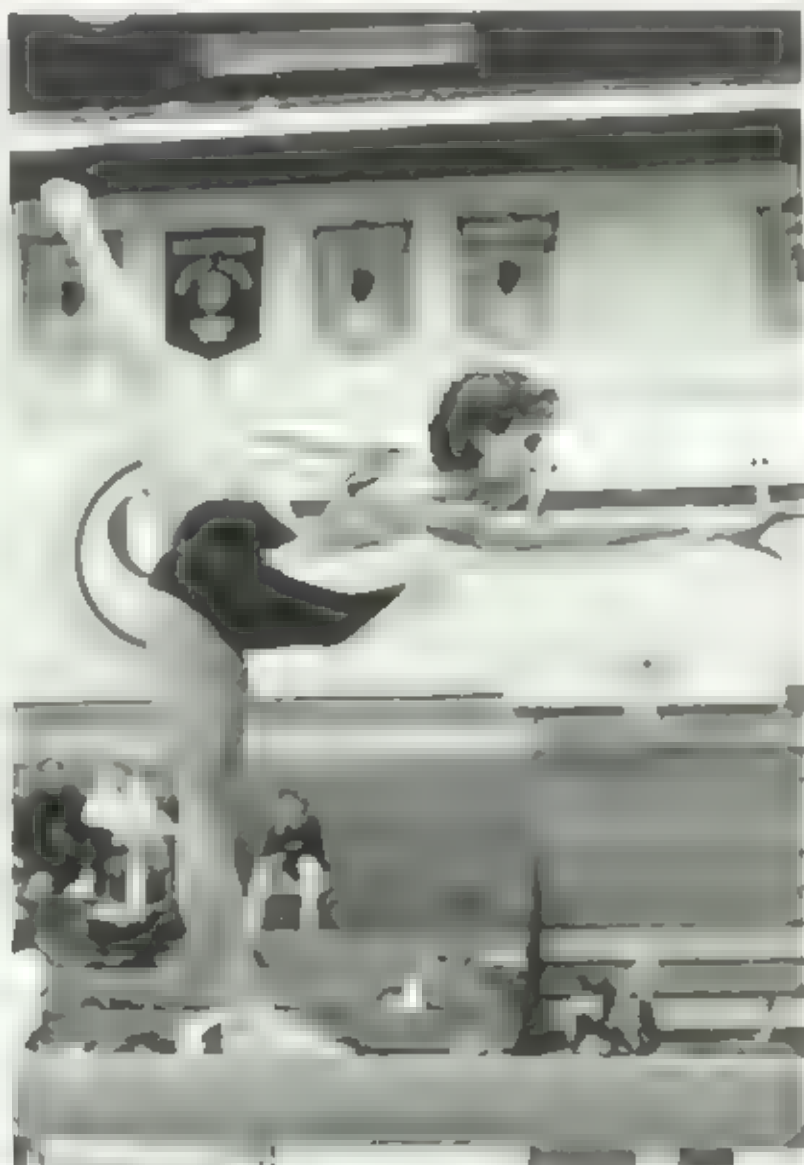

1. With a running start, Tisha Joy prepared for a powerful take-off. 2. Jenny Gilliland, while performing the floor exercises, showed grace and style. 3. A perfect dismount off the bars was one of Debbie Trauger's finer points. 4. The Gymnastics Team. 5. Diana Worsley and her gymnastic troop gave a great performance on the balance beam. 6. A perfect scale was displayed by Nicole Werner, one of the top gymnasts at LHS. 7. The fans watched in awe as Stacy Csla performed. 8. Michelle Haglund successfully "springs" off the vault. 9. As she sailed through the air, Jenny Gilliland showed perfect form. 10. Marnel Tucker did the V-seat. 11. The beam was a specialty for Cindy Fernandez.

SOFTBALL

With a new coach, a will to win, and unlimited talent, the varsity softball team was ready to roll over all of the competition. Spirits were high as the initial practices moved into pre-season play. Coach Al Arbogast took over a strong team that included six returning athletes, including the strong pitching arm of Jennifer Baker, the skill of Arianne Shrider, the batting of Courtney Pilchman and the base running savvy of Malissa Mott. Second base player Sheri Mize, pitcher Carrie Mendoza and outfielder Rhonda DeLong rounded out the team. The JVs boasted of great talent, too. The leadership and skill of players such as Leticia Romero, Julie van Renesse, Tia Gomez, Connie Messineo and Cassandra Brandt were the factors that made the season a success.

1. Stretching for the tag was normal work for first baseman Sheri Mize. 2. Outfielder Carrie Robinson was the best! 3. Jennifer Baker made a successful pitch, and thus picked up many a victory. 4. Always there to make the play at first was outstanding player, Malissa Mott. 5. The Varsity Softball Team. 6. A ground ball proved no problem for Courtney Pilchman. 7. Another one was dug out by Leticia Romero. 8. Tricia Meyers scored another run. 9. Treacherous speed was Julie van Renesse's trademark. 10. Lori Pehoski held down first with the spirit to win. 11. The Junior Varsity Softball Team. 12. Connie Messineo could be counted on for run after run.

PRINCIPAL

Dedication to perfection was evident in everything accomplished by Donald Hopkins. His extensive efforts to make Lakewood the best school in every respect were amply rewarded. Academic standards were kept at the highest level. Concerns about students' welfare were shown by the creation of a peer counseling class, the development of a drug intervention team, an expansion of the attendance service and the implementation of a highly successful Tuesday night tutoring and guidance program. Even the physical plant was honored as the school was commended by the City of Lakewood as the most beautiful place of business. Leadership skills were tested during the October earthquake; the evacuation was an unqualified success. Much of his time was spent meeting students and listening to their concerns. His outgoing personality and receptive manner, coupled with his dedication to achieve the best, made him a principal of whom every Lancer was proud.

1. As he attentively watched Mr. Irwin, Mr. Hopkins learned the intricacies involved in the repair of disc brake systems. 2. A proud moment for Lakewood's regional occupational In-VEST program was the presentation of an $8,250 check for new electronic typewriters. 3. The innovative peer counseling class was a valuable school resource; the principal congratulated the class and its leader, Mr. Mellencamp. 4. The indomitable three-some of Richard Daniels, Bill Mednick and Lee Neely checked everyone's lunch pass, no matter who it was! 5. A friendly handshake from a rather bizarre creature brought lots of laughs from Mr. Saunders and his anatomy and physiology students.

ADMINISTRATION/COUNSELING

The primary goal of the counseling and administrative staffs was to enable each Lancer to achieve success in whatever scholastic endeavor he chose to undertake. The staffs worked harmoniously as they dealt with a wide variety of personal, education and social situations. While seniors were pre-occupied with thoughts of graduation and busied themselves checking credits and staying out of trouble, juniors concentrated their efforts on taking the PSAT and began to think of future career and college choices. Meanwhile, the sophomores were kept more than busy just adjusting to the high school routine, with increased homework and the responsibilities that being at LHS entailed. Turning out the leaders of tomorrow depended on setting them on the proper course; that was what the administration and counseling staffs worked on daily to accomplish.

1. Assistant principal Bob Evans carefully reviewed a selection from the Encyclopedia of Educational Humor. 2. Student aide Jamie Cassell was more than happy to help Mr. Green review test scores. 3. Joie Laster and Dr. Reams worked together to make sure that the attendance count was correct. 4. Wendy Farmer was pleased to have her ACT scores reviewed by Dr. Nowak. 5. Exhausted after a stressful day, activities director Peter Cole tried to relax. 6. Laura Cadieu knew that she could count on Mr. Beard for the correct information. 7. A credit check by Mrs. Morris more than pleased Ariana Hammond. 8. Lisa Scott failed to understand the humor that Mrs. Moffitt used as one of her counseling techniques. 9. Mrs. Dowds always relied on Tami Czauvznak. 10. A friendly reception was given Mike Kinkade by head counselor Bill McDowell. 11. Mr. Flood reviewed an important program change with Jomelly Gegato. 12. Mrs. Vaughn was an expert when it came to scheduling counselees.

MATHEMATICS

As mathematics became an increasingly important part of everyday life, from basic calculations to computer uses, the LHS math staff prepared its students by offering a wide range of classes. Although for some students math was a mind-twisting subject, most found that the helpful teachers could make such subjects as trigonometry, pre-calculus, intermediate algebra or even pre-algebra both interesting and fun. After learning the basics, teachers made sure that their students could perform well on all levels of mathematics. Whether it was quantum equations, cosines, exponents or simple proofs, each Lancer understood that the information he was learning would always be beneficial. Higher math was no longer just for the college bound, but a necessity of life.

1. Mrs. Hamersky's unique method of giving David Steinberg homework seemed to be successful. 2. Outstanding geometry students swarmed around Mr. Stoner. 3. Whether it was one student or ten, a teacher that could always be counted on was Mr. Arnold. 4. A friendly word of encouragement from Mrs. Cape made completion of the algebra assignment a snap for Ruben Gonzales. 5. Mr. Brose cracked up as Becky Thompson, Chris Laurenzana and Jose Robillos told him of their new theory on solving problems. 6. The correct answer was pointed out to Patrick Johnson by Mr. Miner. 7. Mr. Flynn was proud of Margarita Medina's accomplishments. 8. Alex Urin and Jennifer Moore were pleased when Mr. Seyler explained how to arrive at the answer. 9. Shane Howey and Lisa Cunningham received a mind full of knowledge from Mr. Herrick. 10. Mrs. Welke showed her class how Peter Bassett performed a long division problem. 11. Geometry became a simpler subject as Mr. Lashower helped Julie Bartschi and Jody Cooper. 12. Jim Ross depended on Mrs. Thompson to help with geometry assignments.

SCIENCE

From the tiny, one-celled organisms studied in biology classes to the theories of thermodynamics that were learned by students in physics, Lancers were able to gain important insights about the world that surrounded them. With hundreds of new discoveries and new facts surfacing almost daily, the teachers in the science department did an outstanding job of keeping Lakewood's budding scientists up-to-date with the latest information. Along the way, chemistry students learned how acids and bases behaved, biology provided a new name for every animal, life sciences delved into blood types and their importance, and physics gave students mathematical questions to ponder. Science was necessary and fun.

1. "Sam" the snake and his good buddy, Mr. Hughes, settled a few differences in front of Thyra Murphy and Richard Hoffman. 2. Jennifer Yuh was dazzled by Mr. Marshall's smile. 3. Eli Ellison, Geno Wilson and Leapin' Tom Graham enjoyed taking part in Mr. Miller's biology experiments. 4. Lakewood's chapter of the Matty Lampson Fun Club. 5. A somewhat befuddled Mr. Riley took time to clarify a difficult scientific question for Adam Mammans. 6. "Archie" was the name of Sam's rival, he was the pet that kept Mrs. Ohlinder and her student teacher, Liz Trutanich, amused. 7. Mr. Rose could be found in some of the strangest habitats. 8. Lonnie Venable and Rosanne Benavidez enjoyed being in Mr. Rogers' night class. 9. Robin Kirk learned how time zones were measured on the globe with a little help from Mr. Nicholson. 10. The friendly Mr. Mollencamp taught the principles of photography to Lisa Liebszeit, Valerie Childs, Bill Howard and Angie Luckenbach. 11. Sherry Verchio and Mr. Ludwig smiled appealingly, but Vanessa Vargas would rather read her book. 12. Information, wit and lots of chemistry were important parts of Ms. Gilpin's lectures.

PHYSICAL EDUCATION

Physical fitness was an important part of everyone's life, and the lives of Lakewood's Lancers were no exceptions. Although only sophomores were required to take physical education classes, many juniors and seniors joined in the fun of participating in such outstanding programs as power volleyball, swimming and badminton. Both the rules of the sport and the unwritten rules of sportsmanship were imparted to those who signed up for the classes. An opportunity to meet new people, to engage in healthy competition and just to have a great time was provided by the talented faculty in this department. They were always there to spur on the competition, straighten out conflicting rules and to prevent injuries, as well as keeping Lancers in great shape.

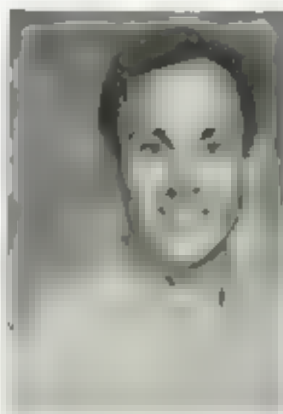

1. John Razo wanted to follow in the footsteps of his idol, physical science master Darrell Zimmerman 2. Trish Jones and Talanda Dedeaux learned the fine points of swimming in Mrs. Gonzales' class. 3. Kim Eckardt was proud that she could be a part of Mr. Saunders' awesome science class. 4. Connie Wright and Poav Uy were amazed by the double beam balances as Mr. Shafer fine-tuned the mechanism. 5. Coach Tim Sweeney did a pretty fair imitation of the Lone Ranger, despite his awful hat, "They went thataway!" 6. Mrs. Nicholson was ready to make a save anytime Eric Guachina or Vinh Phan entered the pool. 7. Otto Flores, Nancy Duren, Candy Elkolin, Yvonne Camper and James Stahman rallied around Coach O'Neil to raise some "racquet" 8. Aerobics and dancing were great exercise, a fact emphasized by Mrs. Quinn. 9. The abilities of volleyball players impressed outstanding coach Al Arbogast. 10. The grateful dance called "badminton" was taught to Rothmany Ung by Coach Chandler

ENGLISH

Stiffer high school graduation and college entrance requirements led Lancers to concentrate on honing their skills in English. The faculty was involved in improving students' abilities to communicate and comprehend written information. Students could select from a wide variety of English courses, ranging from British literature and film analysis to journalism and grammar/composition courses. Especially emphasized were writing skills; the use of correct punctuation, spelling and grammar were important lessons learned by every Lancer. The department was the vehicle chosen by the administration to lead the school-wide effort to improve vocabulary. Students were grateful for the superb quality of the LHS English department.

1. Ms. Alexander was astonished by Steve Proffitt's mastery of the vocabulary lesson. 2. An expert knowledge of the English language enabled Mr. Northern to make every lesson interesting and informative. 3. Proper labeling of essay assignments was carefully taught by Mrs. Grubbs. 4. Steve Speas learned how to make shadow butterflies on the screen from doctoral candidate Robert Cunard. 5. Students learned more if they enjoyed their teachers; Mr. Achterman's class humorously reacted to his grading scale. 6. Mrs. Cobb's charm and wit delighted her grammar and composition class. 7. A sentence in a recently completed essay brought a broad smile of satisfaction to Mrs. Kroll's face. 8. Delighted students surrounded Mrs. Alosa with genuine affection. 9. Quite embarrassed, Tony Lage tried to hide his letter to Mike Fortune from Mrs. Fisher. 10. Pauline Corelli and her classmates gathered around Ms. Hummer for a friendly hello. 11. Dr. Tom Cheeks' prescription for examitis in British literature amused Mrs. Black. 12. Friends of Mr. Gemzauski admired his likeness to Indiana Jones.

ART/LIBRARY/MUSIC/HOME EC

The library was a safe haven for those who wanted a quiet place to either study or to gain more information on a certain subject. In conjunction with the media center, the complex was the place to find the latest in both printed and audio-visual materials. The art and music departments allowed students to discover and express their creative talents. An especially strong art department had garnered the Press Telegram's Academy of Achievement award for two of the past three years. The home economics department's sole teacher, Miss Frank, had enough warmth, character and soul to develop strong programs that were instrumental in teaching students about life after high school.

1 While examining a layout for the LANCE, Aissa Juarez, Mrs. Ott and Jodi Workman found an error that amused them. 2 Erwin Antillon's impressive mastery of the use of the semi-colon impressed Mr. Tereschak. 3 Teaching a willing student such as Claudia Espinoza proved to be a delightful experience for Ms. Ober. 4 Erica Miranda was mesmerized by Mr. Williams and his outstanding teaching techniques. 5 Mr. Pikop and "T.C." Collins rejoiced when she discovered the correct use of the comma. 6 Students always felt confident when Ms. Seelgen was there to give them a helping hand. 7 Mrs. Gill made sure everyone felt at home in the library, as did her assistants Andre La Coste and Carla McNeil. 8 The fine points of line pencil drawings were a specialty of Mr. Reyes, who was happy to pass on his knowledge to Ami Prado. 9 As she gave instructions to Rafael Izarraraz, Mrs. Vest emphasized the importance of using a straight edge. 10 Friends of Miss Frank gathered for a family movie in parent and child class. 11 Ms. Olson wanted to hear only the best from her musicians. 12 Laura Campbell harmonized beautifully under Mr. Ramirez's direction.

ESL/FOREIGN LANGUAGE

With the continued influx of foreign-born students attending Lakewood High School, the need for a strong English as a second language program continued to be important. Communication skills were worked on constantly; every innovative technique, from audio-visual methods to role playing, was employed by the dedicated team of professionals who gave willingly of their time to make sure their students could soon join the mainstream. Even as this group labored to learn America's native tongue, still other Lancers yearned to become familiar with languages foreign to them. French, Spanish and German were the languages which students elected to take not only to learn the words, but to become familiar with the lifestyles and cultures of different lands as well

1. Ms. Alvarez gave the correct pronunciation of a complicated word to Vu Truong. 2. With Mrs. Lefever on their side, learning Spanish was a breeze for Jorge Medina, Arthur Outler and Bethel Ford. 3. Whatever it took, Ms. Walsh did in order to improve her students' English. 4. As he was besieged by questions Mr. DeCordes responded in English to Alex Rivera and Rosa Jeronimo. 5. "Senor Small and the Three Amigos" were a much sought after performing group. 6. Mrs. Slagley convinced Marie Garcia how fun it was to conjugate verbs. 7. Martin Salvador's response to a vocabulary quiz brought laughter and pandemonium to Ms. Toumajian's class. 8. Passing notes in Mrs. Robey's class was always dangerous. 9. The fine points of the French language were pronounced by Mrs. Schubert and Lisa Fredrick. 10. Tobie Brown, Dan Sobchak and Paul Henderson were in complete agreement that having Frau Stankov for a teacher was one of the great experiences at LHS. 11. Spanish students were appreciative of Mr. Garza's diligent work.

SOCIAL STUDIES

As world events took place at an alarmingly rapid rate, the task of making not only the past, but also the present comprehensible was difficult at best. However, the intrepid souls who inhabited the social studies department seemed to possess just the right chemistry to work as a team in order to achieve their goals. The up-coming presidential campaign and election, the Iran-Contra controversy with star players such as Oliver North, the negotiation and signing of historic arms limitation treaty with the Soviet Union and the economic fallout of the dramatic October stock market crash were current threads from which historic tales were woven. Examination of all aspects of history from Cheops to Khomeni gave every student a solid background in the social sciences.

1. Freeway traffic on the way to LHS proved stressful for Firehouse Woody. 2. His government students were amused as Mr. Dunphy dreamt of that all-important June day when he would retire after thirty-five years of teaching. 3. Mike Fortune and James Filius agreed that one teacher who could make U.S. history come alive was Mr. DeCoudres. 4. One of the most helpful teachers at LHS was Mr. Neely. 5. Mr. Sparkman prepared to lead his students through a computerized history lesson. 6. Why was Jonathan Chaney pretending he was a contortionist? Why was Mr. Mednick smiling? 7. Fred Burkhardt and Teress Elder listened intently to Mr. Holzman's tales of the Roman empire. 8. Not quite sure what to make of Yvonne Garcia's paper, Mr. Miltenberger carefully scrutinized its contents. 9. A good ol' government joke was shared by Mr. Daniels, Charles Park and Philip Montsinger. 10. Cartoons were both educational and entertaining in Mrs. Duvall's classes. 11. Mr. Wigod and his accomplices were arrested for having too much fun while learning about criminal law.

BUSINESS/INDUSTRIAL EDUCATION

While areas of interest varied greatly among the members of Lakewood's student body, everyone shared one common goal, the desire to be successful. Through top notch instruction and state-of-the-art equipment, future executives mastered skills ranging from typewriting and shorthand to wordprocessing and accounting. Office life was not for everyone, however. For those ambitious Lancers who wanted to learn skills that were directly transferable to the work place, the classes taught by the highly skilled professionals in the industrial arts department were the answer. Whether it was knowledge about semiconductors or how to repair rotary engines, this department had it all.

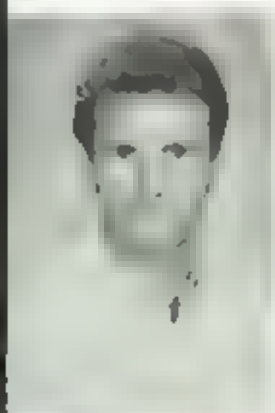

1. Corina Mallari concentrated on Mr. Melvin's explanation of double-entry accounting. 2. Somewhat nervous about their grades, Teresa Herbert, Chris Jordan, Kathryn Flahive and Jason Donaldson looked on as Mr. Foerster corrected their timed writings. 3. Mrs. Davis pointed to a perfect shorthand assignment completed by Tamara Williams. 4. Impressed by her student's speed, Mrs. Butts watched as La Yang's fingers flew across the keyboard. 5. Mistakes in wordprocessing class were often humorous. Mr. Carr laughed as Michelle Stewart deleted the wrong paragraph. 6. Gustavo Guerrero and Jeff Schimming planned their next assignment as Mr. Howey explained how to operate the press. 7. Alex Urin got hands-on experience in automotive class as Mr. Irwin explained the functions of intake and exhaust valves. 8. Craig Preuss planned to drill the devil out of another project, much to the amusement of a very patient Mr. North. 9. Bob Nye was amazed by Mr. Stobbe's driving force. 10. Duke Mao's placement of an integrated circuit brought out the best in Mr. Patten. 11. Mr. Krebs put the finishing touches on Jose Avila's architectural drafting project.

GENERAL/SPECIAL EDUCATION

Sophomores were amazed as they encountered a great deal of enthusiasm and a new sense of awareness in their general education classes. The department offered a three-part, year-long series of courses designed specifically to help pave the way for the future; these classes included health, career guidance and drivers' education. Health students learned in-depth answers to the questions they had concerning adulthood. Career guidance teachers concentrated their efforts on job opportunities awaiting students after graduation. The rules of the road were only the basics in drivers' education; information on defensive driving and freeway survival during gridlock were important topics of discussion.

1. Mr. Scott was amazed as he saw the intricate notes taken by Ericka Harris. 2. The president of Mr. Simpson's fan club, Jennifer Fielding, joined an impromptu discussion. 3. Accurate grades and course descriptions were opportunities for Mr. Strother. 4. No simple explanation could be uncovered as a question about smoking was posed to Mr. Whittington, author of the school's health text. 5. Mr. Frank's lesson on the importance of Robert Kirk and Paul Johnson smiling. 6. By putting himself in the student's place, Mr. Hungerford better understood his work. 7. Indicating the three important steps to success in school, Mrs. Sanders worked with peer training students. 8. Mr. McGrath got in one of his quick jokes as he reviewed Jamal Hodges' work. 9. Ms. Meyer's mission was to help students through the use of speech therapy. 10. Teaching willing students such as Dionn Wall, proved to be a delightful experience for Mrs. Carpenter. 11. Mr. Cahn enhanced the skills of his sign language students.

CLASSIFIED STAFF

Who had the answer to almost any question that concerned LHS? Who could help a student or staff member fill out almost any of the seemingly millions of L.B.U.S.D. forms for this or that? Who could put a student back in class after a lengthy absence? Who spent hundreds of hours manicuring the grounds and picking up inconsiderate students' lunchtime trash? Who checked lunch passes so that students were able to safely enter and exit the school? Who made sure that each room was well-equipped with all of the textbooks that it required? Who arrived in the wee hours of the morning to prepare breakfasts and lunches for three thousand hungry high school students? And who accomplished all of these tasks in a friendly manner, working overtime to help Lancers have a great high school experience? The Lakewood classified staff, that's who!

1. Administration Secretaries: Monica Honey, Michele Eakin and Maureen Cruz. 2. The Cafeteria Staff: Bette Blake, Jan Gati, Bobbie Lessley, Sylvia Reineke, Marge Kazlauskas, Kathy Holmberg and Elva Kiresic. 3. The Events of 1988

1. President Reagan and Mikhail Gorbachev were excited about the medium range anti-missile treaty they had executed while the Soviet leader visited Washington, D.C. 2. A historic day in the life of Lakewood Lancers occurred on October 1, 1987, as the earthquake that had its epicenter on the Whittier Narrows fault line gave a severe jolt to the school. 3. The entire nation joined together to celebrate the 200th anniversary of the United States Constitution. 4. One of the news stories that refused to die over the year involved the scandals that rocked the evangelical Christian television empire; Tammy and Jim Bakker were among the first to admit wrongs, followed by other church leaders, including Jimmy Swaggart. 5. Super Bowl Sunday in San Diego found the Washington Redskins pitted against the Denver Broncos. Quarterback Doug Williams led the skins to an overwhelming victory. 6. The big box office hit of the year was Fatal Attraction, a motion picture that starred Glenn Close and Michael Douglas. 7. The Iran-Contra dealing by the White House was the most scandalous affair of the Reagan administration's tenure; media stars such as O.J. Simpson were grilled by a congressional committee. 8. In a demonstration that things eventually change, Robin Williams was able to find humor in his blockbuster movie, Good Morning, Vietnam. 9. Four years after the America's Cup went AWOL for the first time in 132 years, the San Diego skipper, Dennis Conner, brought the beautiful hunk of silver home from down under. 10. The October 19th stock market crash sent reverberations throughout the world's financial markets. 11. Eighteen-month-old Jessica McClure held on for two and one-half days until rescuers succeeded in freeing her from a Midland, Texas well. 12. Lakewood High School lost two of its best with the deaths of vocal music teacher Marc Clemens and junior Tricia Gauvin.
